

New US Policy On Taxes

Big Bill Passed
This Week Shows
GOP Philosophy
Shift From Dems

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—That big tax bill completed by Congress this week makes a historic turning point in the federal government's attitude toward business.

Boiled down, the bill represents a victory for those who hold the following economic philosophy:

A prime way to create more and better jobs, to make the whole nation more prosperous is to ease the tax burdens on business, to encourage it to start new ventures and expand old ones.

That philosophy was not the dominant one in the 20 years of the "New Deal" and "Fair Deal." Then the argument was that the road toward prosperity lay in direct measures to put more purchasing power into the hands of the consumers.

Echoes of that doctrine were heard in the final, hot debate on the tax revision bill in the Senate. Critics cried that the administration bill "favored the wealthy," that corporations already have large take-home profits but in many cases are "putting them on ice" instead of using them to increase production; that the sure way to pep up the whole economy is to grant more tax relief to little fellows and medium fellows.

But these senators failed to beat the bill rewriting the nation's tax law. Myriads of changes in almost every business tax law are spread through the bill's 1,000 or so pages of small print. Some of the changes are major, most of them sound technical and trivial by themselves.

But all put together, they reflect the fundamental view of the Eisenhower administration and many Republicans in Congress that for years the tax laws have been running down the wrong track.

Right or wrong, the controlling thesis behind the tax bill, as expressed by Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey and many others, goes like this:

Since the advent of the New Deal more than 20 years ago, the government through tax laws has hobbled away at many business freedoms, at incentives to take risks, to grow, to turn to new products, to junk out-moded and inefficient methods and equipment. They say this has been done not only by taking a bigger and bigger slice of profits, but by many harsh, rigid tax regulations.

And they say tax laws have been used to force social changes when their sole function should be to raise needed revenue in the simplest way, the way that would be best for the whole economy.

Sure: During these 20 years, the economy has grown as never before; business expansion into new products, new plants, new equipment has been unprecedented.

But the administration men say most if not all this expansion has been caused by a defense buildup, then World War II, then billions in pent-up consumer demands, then war in Korea again—all at the expense of an inflation that would be ruinous if continued.

So the administration and Republicans in Congress set out to write a completely new tax structure they said would help bring a sound, prosperous, growing economy over the long years ahead—when business conditions might be tough, competition keen, defense spending reduced, inflation checked—in summary, when unusual stimuli would be gone and the economy would be "normal."

The key to their plans was to try to increase incentives for business to expand, try new products, seek cheaper and better production that would sell more goods and create more and better jobs.

Unsanitary Garbage Pails Will Be Tagged

Tags to be placed on unsanitary garbage pails throughout the city have been prepared and will be put into use this week.

Some weeks ago the city sanitation department asked all residents to get regulation garbage pails and put them into use. Now, after sufficient time has been allowed for this, the department is ready to tag the unsanitary and inadequate pails.

When a tag appears on a garbage container it is a warning that a regulation container should be obtained at once.

July Is Gone

July, the hottest month in almost ten years, and one of the hottest ever—providing the record high day of all time at 115 degrees—has passed. May it or its brothers never return.

The temperature here Saturday reached 93 at 1 p. m., 95 at 2 p. m., and 97 at 3 p. m.

Cooler tonight and Sunday. High Sunday in low 90s.

One year ago today here high 101, low 77; two years ago 88, 63; three years ago 87, 64.

Stage at Lake of the Ozarks: 55.0, fall of 1.

New U. S. Military Training Plan Oked

Administration Approves Measure Designed To Put All Qualified Young Men On Active Duty, Then In Reserves Through Nat. Guard

By C. YATES McDANIEL
WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—A sweeping new military manpower plan aimed at military duty for "all qualified young men," followed by compulsory service in a new reserve set-up, has been approved by the Eisenhower administration, it was disclosed today.

Six Charges Hurlled at Mac By Fulbright

Includes Allegation Of a 'Shakedown' By Building Group

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark.) hurled six charges—including an allegation of a $10,000 "shakedown" of a housing corporation—at Sen. McCarthy today as the Senate ploughed through some seven hours of argument without a decision on a move to censure the Wisconsin Republican.

Fulbright moved to meet vehement objections from a number of senators that the resolution of condemnation of McCarthy's conduct, offered by Sen. Flanders (R-Vt.), lacked a bill of particulars.

It was a day in which foes of McCarthy lambasted him, and other senators, including Sen. Daniel (D-Tex.), objected that the backers of the Flanders move were trying to do to McCarthy what they accuse him of doing to others—condemning people without fair procedure.

Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) called the Flanders resolution an "utterly improper approach and unbecomable."

Fulbright offered amendments to the Flanders resolution covering each of his six charges. He said he would demand a vote on each.

The other five were that McCarthy: Denounced a Senate subcommittee that investigated his affairs and "contemptuously refused to comply with its request" that he testify.

Openly invited and urged government employees to violate the law and their oaths of office before a nationwide television audience. This was a reference to McCarthy's statement at the Army-McCarthy hearings that it was the duty of government workers to supply him with confidential information.

Strongly implied in public hearings of his own subcommittee that Annie Lee Moss, an employee of the Pentagon "was known to be a member of the Communist party and that if she testified she would perjure herself before he had given her a chance to testify."

Impugned the "loyalty, patriotism and character" of Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker, another witness at McCarthy hearings on alleged communism in the Army.

In June 15, 1951, speech "without proof or other justification, made an unwarranted attack upon Gen. George C. Marshall."

Point No. 1 dealt with a fee McCarthy got in 1948 from the Lustrco Corp. housing concern. It was for a booklet in housing.

US Rushes Planes To Costa Rica As Border Boils

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—The United States today rushed six Air Force planes to Costa Rica as troops and armored vehicles from neighboring Nicaragua made a show of strength near Costa Rica's border.

The two Central American republics have been quarreling for months. Recently each has accused the other of acts of violence along their common frontier.

Informed quarters said it appeared the Washington government's action in sending the planes was to serve two purposes: 1. a measure of reassurance to the people of Costa Rica, which for years has had no army; and 2. to tell Nicaragua that "anybody else interested that no trouble is wanted in Central America."

The Air Force called the flight a "good will" mission and as if to emphasize United States neutrality in the dispute, it announced the planes may go later on to other countries in that area.

Only yesterday the State Department called on both Costa Rica and Nicaragua to keep the peace.

Symington Urges Quick Action on Drought Aid

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson today was urged by Sen. Symington (D-Mo) immediately to designate all of Missouri as a drought disaster area.

In a letter to Benson, Symington said he was "most distressed and disappointed" to learn that the department does not expect to act this week on the designation of Missouri as a drought disaster area.

"Equally hard to understand is the report that the department of Agriculture does not yet have the feed distribution program," Symington said.

day. The object is to prepare the nation for any possible war with Russia.

"The whole thing is geared to the day of active war with the Soviet Union," said Asst. Secretary of Defense John A. Hannah in explaining the policy approved by the National Security Council this week for submission to Congress early next year.

"Everyone up to the President," Hannah said, "agrees that we must have an effective reserve to meet the requirements of war with the Soviets." Hannah added: "And that is the only war that counts."

It was his last day at the Pentagon after serving for 18 months as assistant secretary for manpower and personnel. Next week he will resume the presidency of Michigan State College.

The reserve scheme, which Hannah said would have to be pushed through Congress before the current selective service law expires next April, is the newest approach to a form of universal military training. Actually it would go beyond some training proposals of the past, Hannah pointed out, because the National Security Council in approving it stated one of the objectives thus: "All qualified young men will be required to serve . . . a minimum period as members of one of the armed services."

The administration's top policy making body said also that all qualified young men who "do not enlist in a service of their choice, will be inducted."

Hannah read from an official document classified "secret." As he talked to newsmen in his office, he declassified the paper by the simple expedient of cutting off the word "secret" with a pair of scissors.

Whether Congress would go along with the plan is a question. It has been cool to UMT in the past.

The program, as Hannah outlined it, would abolish the Army and Air Force reserve organizations as they now exist and make the National Guard, now under state control except in time of war, "the National Guard of the United States for all practical purposes," Hannah declared. This would be done, Hannah said, by assigning to guard units all young Army and Air Force men after they had completed their tours of inductive or voluntary duty in the regular services. The present reserve law sets forth an eight-year period of military service but provides no method to force young men to join the organized and active reserves.

Hannah said he favored putting teeth into the law by recommending automatic reinduction of any youth who failed or refused to continue his active reserve service.

Hannah said the program calls for the establishment of five military manpower pools, each of which would be maintained at an even level for years to come. These pools would be made up of the following components:

1. The regular military forces totaling 3,047,000, starting one year from now. This total is about 232,000 men more than the Pentagon planners last year thought it would be. Hannah conceded that the Pentagon planners were overoptimistic last year in assuming that the armistice in Korea would permit the withdrawal of most of the ground troops in the Far East.

2. A ready reserve of 3,055,894 would constitute the second manpower pool. These are the men who would be in the Army and Air Force National Guard divisions and lesser units and in the reserve organizations of the Navy and the Marine Corps. These men could be called to federal duty directly and immediately by the four regular services—if a national emergency arose.

3. The third pool would number 750,000 men who would be called up as individuals through the selective service machinery. The selectively callable reserves would be composed largely of men who had served active duty tours and gone through the ready reserve. It is from this third category that the military services as well as science and industry would look for specialists and key workers.

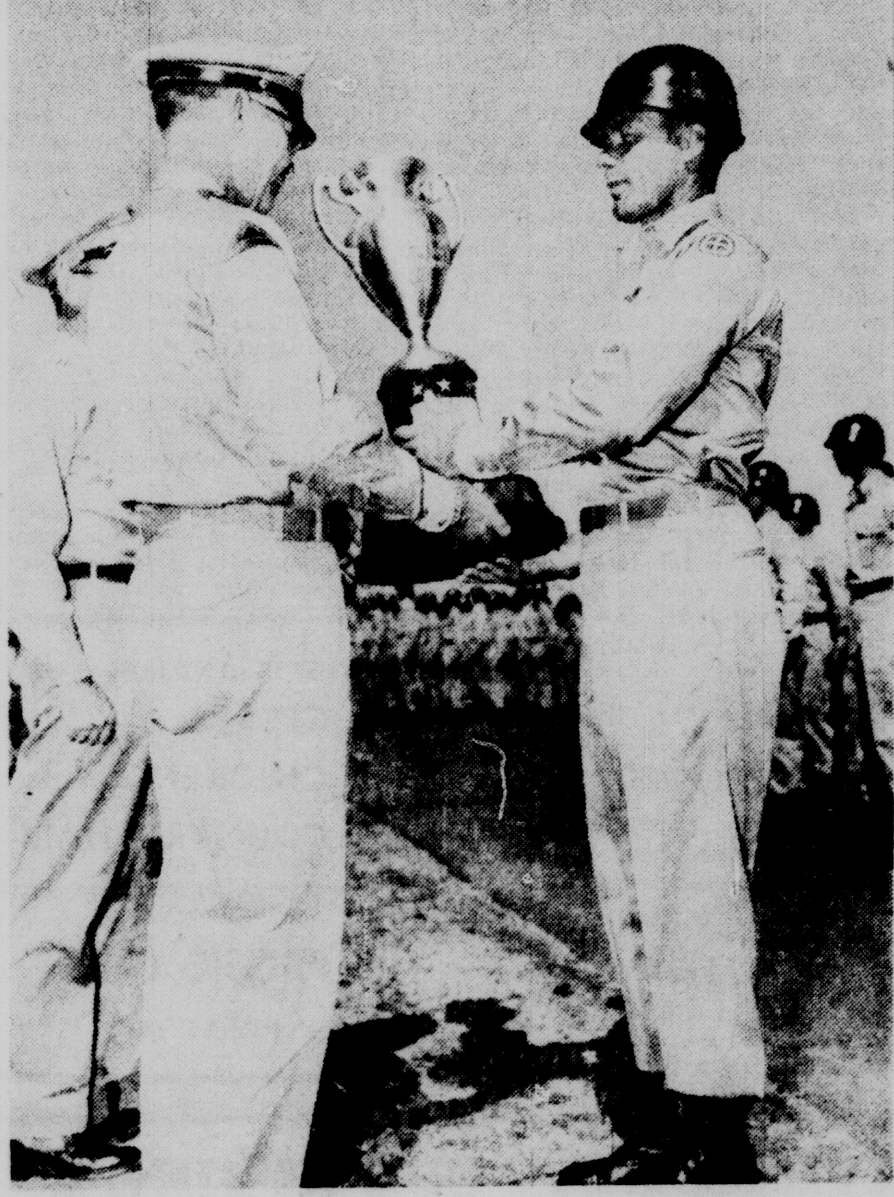

4. The fourth pool would consist of an annual draft of 300,000 men to be taken in at the rate of 25,000 each month. The actual number drafted, of course, would depend upon the number who volunteer.

5. The last pool would consist of a reservoir of 750,000 draft-age men without prior service who would be inducted in the first few months of another big war.

Hannah estimated that the cost of the administration's new reserve system would be 1½ billion dollars, about twice the expenditure upon the separate reserve programs of the services today.

Another stated objective of the new program is to insure "equity of service in both the active and reserve forces." The National Security Council document spelled out this objective by saying that the program was designed specifically to remove as soon as possible from reserve status all World War II and Korean War veterans who do not choose to serve in the reserves.

The program is designed to become fully effective within three years after Congress passes the necessary legislation.

TROPHY TO TOP RIFLE COMPANY—The commanding general of the 35th infantry division, Maj. Gen. John C. McLaughlin, Sedalia, presents the McLaughlin trophy to the commander of the rifle company judged the best in the division in the last year. Receiving the trophy is Capt. Thomas E. O'Loughlin, commander of Company E, 140th Infantry Regiment, Jackson, Mo. The trophy was awarded for the first time at a ceremony before a parade of division troops at Camp McCoy, Wis., where the division held the 2-week field training period. The winning company is chosen on the basis of field training and armory drill accomplishment. (35th Division Signal Company Photograph)

Achievement Days For 4-H Clubs Arrive

Tuesday Is Judging Day, Wednesday Has Other Big Contests

The annual Achievement Day of the Pettis County 4-H Clubs will be held Tuesday and Wednesday at Smith-Cotton High School and at that time, through displays and contests, the efforts of the club members through the year will be judged.

Program for the two-day event, as announced by those in charge, includes many separate contests and displays at the high school and in the school cafeteria.

The event is open to the public and several hundred 4-H club members are expected to take part.

Five Senators Come Up For Renomination

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—Five senators came up for renomination in primaries next week, but only Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) appears to have strong opposition.

Others are Sens. Homer Ferguson (R-Mich.), Matthew M. Neely (D-Wyo.), Andrew F. Schoepel (R-Kan.) and John Sherman Cooper (R-Ky.).

Ferguson has no primary opposition for a third term. Neely, Schoepel and Cooper are regarded as easy winners over light competition.

Record Capital Heat

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—The temperature hit 103 degrees here at 4 p.m. EDT today—the highest in the nation's capital in 18 years.

KSD-TV Will Salute Sedalia Monday Morn

Group To Take Part In Town of Week Show at St. Louis

Sedalia is to be honored tomorrow as "Town of the Week" on KSD-TV, the Post Dispatch station, St. Louis from 11:15 a. m. to 12 noon.

A group of Sedalia men will appear on the program at which time they will tell of Sedalia and answer questions. In the group will be Mayor Julian H. Bagby; Claude L. Boul, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Col. Franklin K. Reynier and Capt. H. E. Willoughby, from the Sedalia Air Force Base; and Ross Ewing, secretary of the Missouri State Fair.

In addition, a number of Sedalia women will participate on the program "To The Ladies." They are: Mrs. Claude Boul, Miss Regina Boul, Mrs. Fred Kuhlman, Mrs. Ray Lippard, Mrs. Karl Baumbler, Mrs. William B. Rich, Mrs. Herb Studer, Mrs. Herbert Seifert, Mrs. Leo Eckhoff, Mrs. James L. Thompson, Mrs. Marjorie Garanson, Mrs. Katie Rosencrans and Mrs. Anna Bagby.

Bagby is chairman of the good will committee of the Chamber of Commerce which was in charge of arranging for the women to appear on the program.

The preparations for the show "To The Ladies" were made by Miss Rita Barbaugh, of the station staff, and Miss Mary Anna Kuhlman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kuhlman who has been the contact agent. Miss Kuhlman, who has been appearing on programs at station KSD-TV, will be at the studio to greet and meet the guests from Sedalia as they arrive.

Sixth 'No' to School

NAYLOR, Mo., July 31 (AP)—For the sixth time in less than two years Naylor voters Friday turned down a proposed $135,000 bond issue for a new school building.

The 6th district of northwestern Missouri also has had some campaign fireworks. Rep. William C. Cole of St. Joseph has two opponents for the Republican nomination (Please turn to page 4 column 1)

US Has 2000 Jet Interceptor Planes Ready To Hit Enemy

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—The United States has about 2,000 jet interceptor planes poised to minutes of an enemy attack scream into the air within three warning.

Robot missile installation projects are underway at a dozen critically important metropolitan areas with more than a score of other Nike anti-aircraft gunned for other cities. Automatic anti-aircraft artillery rings many key points.

A new, weird looking row of warning radar, called "Texas Towers," is being staked in the coastal waters off the Atlantic Seaboard; the "Pine Tree" radar fence in the area of the Canadian border is almost 100 per cent complete and working; several automatic, unmanned radar warning stations are in operation scanning the Arctic skies up the edge of the North American continent, the beginning of the distant radar warning line, called "Dewline."

The nation has far more and far better aerial defense ready than it had in the most dangerous days of World War II.

But the most optimistic defense expert doesn't dream that this vast, unprecedented, multibillion dollar system of continental defense would stop every Russian bomber from getting through the guard. He only hopes that most would be detected and destroyed.

In this day of nuclear weapons, one bomb can destroy one great city.

The progress of the new offensive weapon is appallingly swift. A decade ago the biggest bomb was a 10-ton blockbuster. Nine years ago the first nuclear fission bomb was exploded, with force equivalent to 20,000 tons of TNT.

Last March a thermonuclear bomb was set off which yielded a force of about 17 million tons. And with no trouble at all, far mightier ones can be fabricated.

Some sardonic soul has summed up the progress of mass extermination weapons this way:

1. Big.

2. Bigger.

3. Where is everybody?

It is with the hope of helping prevent a day when some survivor might look at a great smoking crater and ask "where is everybody?" that the government is building the complex system called "continental defense."

It may not save every city, but it may save enough to keep the nation's war effort going until retaliatory bombing by the Strategic Air Fleet can strike at sources from which the enemy launches its aerial attack. That is the Air Force's argument—here static defense by interceptors and anti-aircraft artillery isn't enough; only blasting Russian bases could stop a war and win it.

State's Election Quiet

Few Contests Make Voters Take Little Interest; But There Are Few Hot Races

By LARRY HALL

JEFFERSON CITY, July 31 (AP)—Tuesday is primary election day in Missouri but you'd hardly know it. It may turn out to be the quietest election since they quit bringing the returns in on horse-back.

Only one statewide office is at stake, state auditor, and in county after county there are too few local contests to arouse voter interest. It all adds up to a forecast of an extremely light vote, perhaps less than 500,000, according to the secretary of state's office.

Normally a Missouri primary draws 700,000 to 800,000. And in the presidential year of 1952, with a full slate of state offices on the ballot, the total was just short of a million.

Even that was only about 36 per cent of the eligible voters and in some counties it went down to almost 15 per cent.

The State Chamber of Commerce issued a statement today urging voters to use their franchise.

"Indifference of the voters is one of the hazards of representative government," the chamber said. "It is one of the major duties of citizenship to take part in primary elections."

In the only statewide race, State Auditor Haskell Holman of Moberly has no primary opposition and wins the Democratic nomination automatically.

Three Republicans filed for the chance to oppose him in November—Joseph M. Badgett of St. Louis, who has sought the office unsuccessfully before; James C. Hodge, Kansas City accountant who lives in Clay County; and Harold L. Butterfield of Sumner, former state American Legion commander.

In the congressional races, five Democratic incumbents and one Republican incumbent win automatic nomination.

The Democrats are Reps. Frank M. Kanstner of St. Louis in the 1st district; Mrs. John B. Leonor K. Sullivan of St. Louis in the 3rd; Richard Bolling of Kansas City in the 5th; A. S. J. Carnahan of Ellsinore in the 8th and Morgan M. Moulder of Camdenton in the 11th.

A fifth Democrat, Eugene H. Buder of Clayton, is unopposed in the 2nd district, which is represented now by a Republican.

The Republican incumbent who has no opposition is Rep. Jeffrey P. Hillebrand of Kansas City, a first term in the 4th district. Three other Republicans—former Mayor Bill Bangert of Berkeley City in the 1st, Dorman L. Steelman of Salem in the 8th and Noel Carpenter of High Hill in the 9th—also win nomination without a struggle.

The big fight of the primary campaign is in the heavily Republican 7th district of southwestern Missouri. There veteran Rep. Dewey Short of Galena is being challenged by State Sen. Neel Cox of Spokane in an old-fashioned, no-holds-barred battle.

Short is chairman of the House Armed Services Committee and argues that his seniority is an important asset to the district. Cox has accused Short of neglecting the district and says it's time for a change.

This one looks like a fight right down to the wire.

The 6th district of northwestern Missouri also has had some campaign fireworks. Rep. William C. Cole of St. Joseph has two opponents for the Republican nomination (Please turn to page 4 column 1)

Record Peach Harvest Predicted For State

CAMPBELL, Mo., July 31 (AP)—A record peach harvest for this part of Missouri was predicted today by Jeff King, owner of one of the largest orchards in the area.

King said about 100,000 bushels of peaches will be harvested from 500 acres of orchards during the next two weeks. Several hundred workers have been employed to do the picking, he said.

He described this year's peaches as of fine quality.

County 4-H Stock Show Here Monday

Event To Be Held At Swine Pavilion On The Fairgrounds

Monday, at the swine pavilion of the Missouri State Fair, the Pettis County 4-H Club Livestock Show is to be held and several hundred purebred animals—swine, sheep, beef and dairy cattle and poultry—will be exhibited for judging.

John Sneed Jr. is general chairman of the show and Pierre Lamy is the assistant superintendent.

There are 18 classes for swine including junior sow pigs, junior boar pigs and single fat barrow for these breeds: Duroc, Spotted Poland China, Chester White, Poland China and other breeds. Raymond K. Kars is superintendent and Forrest Reid, assistant, for the swine show.

The sheep division is headed by George Gorrel as superintendent, with Merle Templeton as assistant. Classes are provided for five breeds—Shropshire, Hampshire, Southdown, Corriedale and Oxford—in these groups: ram lambs, ewe lambs, pen of three breeding lambs.

Three breeds of beef cattle have classes—Shorthorns, Hereford and Angus. The animals to be shown are: baby beef, heifer calf, senior heifer, summer yearling heifer, senior yearling heifer.

E. H. Gregory is superintendent of the beef show with Tom Harvey, assistant.

Open to 4-H club members carrying cow and calf projects are two other classes for the "three breeds": beef cows, 2 years and under; 2 cows, 3 years and under; 4 and beef cows, 4 years and over.

For dairy cattle there are four recognized breeds with all other breeds grouped together. The four are: Jersey, Guernsey, Holstein and Brown Swiss. Classes in each of these are provided for: heifer calf, junior yearling heifer, senior yearling heifer, cows 2 years and under; 2 cows, 3 years and under; 4 cows 4 years and under; 5 cows 5 years and over.

Ernest Schlobohm is superintendent for the dairy cattle show with Earl Wood as his assistant.

Mrs. M. C. Ford is superintendent of the poultry show and Mrs. Ben Townsend is assistant.

The classes include: production birds (pen of 3); market birds (pen of 3); broilers, fryers and roasters.

Showmanship medals will be awarded in several departments of the show.

All exhibitors of livestock and dairy animals will receive a blue ribbon plus $3.50, a red ribbon plus $2, or a white ribbon plus $1. Exhibits of poultry classes will receive a blue ribbon plus $1.50, a red ribbon plus $1, or a white ribbon plus 50 cents.

No exhibitor will receive more cash award in any class than the total of the two highest awards in that class.

38 Guardsmen Become III After a Lunch

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., July 31 (AP)—Thirty-eight of the St. Joseph and Chillicothe members of the Missouri National Guard's 35th signal company were stricken by food poisoning today on their way home from two weeks of training at Camp McCoy, Wis.

Twenty-one of the St. Joseph group were left in a hospital at Leon, Iowa, and four others were hospitalized there.

Thirteen members of the Chillicothe unit were taken to the Veterans Administration hospital Des Moines.

Capt. Robert H. Hillyard of St. Joseph said none of his men appeared to be in serious condition and all were improving.

At Chillicothe Lt. Keith Beardmore said the mess kitchen prepared sack lunches of ham sandwiches and bananas at Grinnell, Iowa, last night. The convoy picked up the lunches and ate them about 6:30 a. m. today near Indianapolis, Iowa.

The St. Joseph and Chillicothe sections of the convoy separated at Indianapolis.

Beardmore said the Chillicothe men were stricken about 8:30 a. m. 75 miles this side of Des Moines, and the unit commander, Capt. Cliff Benson, took the 13 victims back to the VA hospital.

Corn Crop A Loss Unless Rains Soon

KANSAS CITY, July 31 (AP)—Unless rain and cooler temperatures relieve parched acreage in Missouri, northeast Kansas, and other areas of the midwest, a "tremondous" loss in the 1954 corn crop is likely, the Santa Fe Railroad's crop summary said today.

Here Is a Fishy Love Story About Susie and Lew Maxwell

Editor's Note:—There are all sorts of stories about man's devotion to his dog, or to his horse or vice versa. But here's a new one—vouched for by a veteran reporter who knows a fish story when he hears one—about Susie the sea cow's big crush on Lew Maxwell.

By JIM MARTENHOFF

MIAMI, Fla., July 31 (AP)—This is a fish story, but it's a true fish story. About Lew Maxwell, Florida frogman, and Susie the sea cow.

Maxwell studied oceanography at the University of Florida, now runs a diving equipment store here. But his real love is going off by himself to swim, even at odd hours.

It was on one of these junkies that he met Susie. Of course, he didn't know her name was Susie.

"She looked like her name—if she had a name—should have been Susie, so I called her Susie," he says.

Lew and Susie became fast friends. She hung out in a channel at Paradise Point, south of here, and Lew used to go down there at dawn and go for a swim with Susie.

He always recognized her because of a big scar on her back. She probably recognized him because, well, Lew's hair is getting a little thin on top, to put it mildly.

"I had a peculiar kind of noise I would make underwater," Lew says, "and pretty soon Susie would come swimming out of the muck. Kind of frightening, until I got used to it."

She would muzzle up to Lew, and he would kiss her on her big, fat, wet nose, and they'd romp together for awhile.

The story got around our neck of the woods. A lot of people took it with a grain of salt. Sea cows are vegetarians, but nevertheless they have not been noted for amiability.

Then one day I was out swimming with Lew. We were walking along an old sea wall, and Lew suddenly said "there's Susie" and leaped into the water.

Sure enough, there was a sea cow about 50 feet out. Big, too. I had a camera with me, in a water glass—a box open at one end, for the camera, and with watertight glass at the other. You sort of lean into the water to use it, but you can't go under the surface.

Grabbing a surfboard I loaded the camera on it and swam out to see if I could get a chummy picture of Susie and Lew Maxwell. This was one love affair that belonged on film.

When I got there, I met Susie. She was a sure enough sea cow, a massive hunk of animated blubber running close to a half ton in weight. She had little, piggy eyes and a blunt, cowl-like nose.

She knew Lew just like Lew knew Susie. They were nuzzling away and gamboling in the water and having a gay time.

And I couldn't get a picture of it. The water was too choppy for me to work from the surfboard. I couldn't stand and use the camera, and I couldn't go underwater with it.

But I had a good look at Susie. Frankly, I think she was homely. I don't know what Lew saw in her. And, unfortunately, Susie got a good look at me.

He swam away. Lew looked at me accusingly. "You must have scared her away," he said.

He stared after her. "I'll bet she doesn't come back, either."

She didn't. And that's why we don't have any pictures to prove it. Nobody ever really quite believed Lew's story about Susie. Now the situation is worse.

Nobody believes me.

Syracuse Gets Relief By Rain On Saturday

By Mrs. B. A. Bridges

SYRACUSE — The farmers of this community are happy about the two-inch rain which fell Saturday between 4 a.m. and noon.

Things were getting serious with wells getting very low, ponds dry, and pastures literally burning up.

Many farmers were forced to ship their cattle due to lack of water and feed.

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Robertson entertained Sunday with a birthday dinner honoring the latter's mother, Mrs. Fred Holman, Ottumwa, Mo.

Others present were: Mr. Holman, Miss Shirley Holman and Virgil Friskell, Independence, Mo. and Mrs. Clay Page, Sedalia, and Cynthia Robertson of the home.

Miss Mary Vivian Simmons, Harrisonville, was a weekend visitor in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stahl and Paul Edwin.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Bridges, Kansas City, visited Saturday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Bridges. They were enroute to Fortuna for a week's vacation with the former's brother and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Northcraft and daughter, Mariene, Quincy, Ill., were in town Saturday. They called on Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Stahl and Mrs. Speed Poage and others. They were former residents of this community.

Mrs. Lena Stahl was dismissed Sunday from Bothwell Hospital, Sedalia, where she had been a patient since July 16. She was taken to the home of her son, Mr. and Mrs. John Stahl. Two of her daughters, Mrs. Elmer Wood and Mrs. Guy Moon, Harrisonville, were with her this week, helping take care of her.

A. M. Smith returned Wednesday from the Missouri Pacific Hospital, St. Louis, where he had undergone surgery.

Mrs. Clara Huff accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Charles DeJarnette Jr. to Warrensburg Thursday evening where they were dinner guests of the latter's daughter, Mrs. Lois DeJarnette.

Dolne and Jackey Petree visited last week with Mr. and Mrs. Tom Billingsly in Sedalia, who brought the children home Sunday and spent the day with their mother, Mrs. Lola Petree, and Sonny.

A demonstration of the rural fire truck was made Saturday evening south of the steel bridge on Highway D, south of town. John Deuber, Tipton, gave the demonstration.

The Rev. and Mrs. James L. Allen and Herbert Brauer attended a Sunday school meeting at Mt. Herman Church last Monday evening.

Attending a brotherhood meeting and a father and son banquet at the Bunceton Baptist Church Friday evening were: the Rev.

James L. Allen, George Peoples, Ernest Homan and son, Eddie. Boys adopted for the evening were Larry Fry, Donnie Hardy and V. A. Keevil.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kuttnerhuler, Springfield, were weekend visitors of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Starke and son, Bill. Mrs. Starke accompanied them home for a five-day visit.

The Rev. Wilbur Kirschner and son, Keith, Kansas City, were weekend guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Kirschner.

Bobby Walters, Kansas City, has been a guest the past week of his grandmother, Mrs. C. D. Walters.

Several men of the Baptist Church gathered there Monday to tear out the old concrete steps, which are broken and dangerous. They will replace them with new ones.

Seek New Findings On Cancer

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP)—Some of the things we eat, drink or breathe are going to be studied over the world as possible criminals causing human cancer.

The studies—covering food, eyes, and additives, city air, chemicals in industry and smoking—will be part of a broad new attack seeking ways to cure and prevent cancer. The program was launched today by scientists of 54 nations meeting here at the 6th International Cancer Congress.

The experts find two reasons to suspect that certain chemicals we are exposed to may be cancer hazards. For one thing, some chemicals produce cancers of one or more types in animals under laboratory conditions. The second reason is geographical: Industrial and other studies find a high incidence of particular types of cancer among certain groups of humans.

The scientists want to know what all this means in terms of saving human lives.

The Cancer Union, sponsor of the Sao Paulo meeting, appointed two new commissions to carry on the work between congresses, which are held every three or four years.

One is a commission on cancer research. Headed by Germany's Dr. Hermann Druckery, it is aimed at stimulating and helping worldwide research in all fields of treatment and understanding of cancer.

The other is the commission on cancer control—to pool worldwide knowledge on how to prevent cancer and detect it early, to spread news of the best treatments and to step up public and professional education.

The commission received a resolution adopted by the scientists of eight nations who already have considered a number of cancer-causing possibilities.

This was done by a committee on cancer prevention headed by Dr. William E. Smith of New York University and including experts of Britain, Brazil, Denmark, Germany, Scotland, Belgium and France.

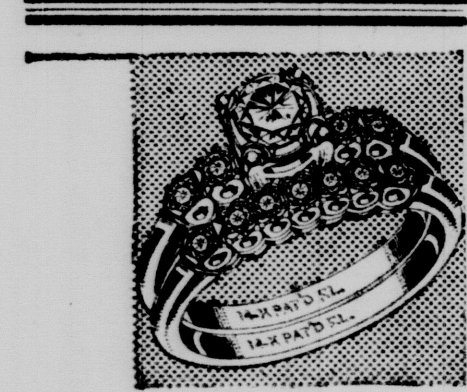

The resolution said it is known that various chemicals, including some dyes used to color human food, can produce cancers in mice or other animals. It said that doesn't necessarily mean the same is true for humans, but "it is not prudent to regard such agents as harmless for man."

One reason for caution is that experiments indicate even a small dose of some chemicals might cause cancer decades later. A big question, thus, is whether very tiny doses coming from flavored and colored foodstuffs and drinks can be a delayed time bomb for cancer.

Regarding smoking, the resolution said studies give evidence of some association between lung cancer and degrees of tobacco smoking, possibly of a causative nature, though it is not possible to accept smoking as the only cause of lung cancer.

Despite Her Ancient Pride, France Is Nearly 'Has Been'

Editors' Note—The French have a word for it—"Immobilism." It accounts in large part for the fact France has slipped to fifth among world powers at a time when traditional allies need her most. In this second of three articles, AP's Paris Bureau Chief, a veteran observer of French affairs, tells what it means for France's future.

By PRESTON GROVER PARIS, July 31 (AP)—Despite her ancient pride and present promise, France is steadily slipping into the status of a "has been."

This is a country which cannot make up its mind, and yet every year of indecision leaves it with less choice of courses to follow. It is a country on which the free world and the United States has based much of its policy in opposing the spread of communism. Yet it has one of the largest Communist parties outside Russia.

It is a country with a long tradition of freedom and should be a strong bastion of democracy. But it is one of democracy's weakest links.

The country is fundamentally so rich and well balanced in its resources that ever since the war there has been a lively expectation that France suddenly would "blossom out" in the full flower of a great nation.

But it hasn't, and the reasons are becoming ever clearer, both to Americans and to Frenchmen who, as observers or statesmen, must estimate its future place in the world.

Its riches are evident on every hand. Food, one of the great resources of the world, is plentiful here. The fine stands of wheat in Utah, Idaho and Washington can be matched in a half hour's drive from the center of Paris. Yet in a large part of France, farm methods are a century out of date.

In northern France, in the Lorraine area, is an industrial heaven. Side by side lie rich coal beds and rich veins of iron ore. Yet until the time of the Marshall Plan in 1948, the most up-to-date steel plants in France were those built by the Germans in Lorraine before 1914.

Though Premier Mendes-France has managed to deliver an Indo-China truce agreement on deadline as promised, few are optimistic enough to believe that this solved the problem for all time. And the country's inability to deal with other basic problems has brought at least four of them to its doorstep on a critical basis:

1. The situation in North Africa is menacing.

2. Severe internal fiscal and economic problems cry for solution, with no immediate remedies in sight.

3. A badly-needed friendly settlement with Germany hangs in the balance.

4. International agreements with the West also hang in balance.

What does the average Frenchman think about these problems? Not much.

Under a system inaugurated by Napoleon, the police of the country are required from time to time to submit reports on public reaction to current affairs. It's a system of taking the public pulse.

At the time of the fall of Dien-Bien Phu a new report was called for. What did the people think about it? In the heart of Paris one district police captain summarized findings of his police observers in a French phrase which translates into an English expression: "They couldn't care less!"

There's an attitude of shoulder-shrugging among the people when it comes to foreign affairs, domestic problems, public responsibility. They blame it on the wars, and if they blame it on the wars, and if that doesn't quite cover it, they blame it on French individualism.

There is truth in both. Every major American and French political figure I have talked to puts his finger on one point as the chief cause of difficulty—the present system of French government.

The French executive branch is so weak it can be overthrown on the most trivial of issues by minority political parties. And Parliament is composed of a grumbling antagonistic group of minority political parties.

The people who share the responsibility of governing France do not intend to change the system. They might vote themselves out of power—and they are traditionally wary of strong central management.

A new Cabinet has to be created for almost every new piece of important legislation contemplated. In choosing members for such a Cabinet, the dominant question isn't so much "how good is he?" as "how many votes can he guarantee?"

Every little packet of 5 to 1 votes—the following of a single leader—becomes extremely important. It often results in complete deadlock on important matters. That is what is meant by "immobilism."

This system has held up the rearmament of Germany ever since it was decided in Allied councils of 1950 that it was necessary.

The delay in rearming Germany has reacted against France in another way. Germany, not allowed to manufacture armaments, has concentrated on building up her world commerce. As a result she is far ahead of France. German bridges, ships, turbines, locomotives, chemicals and cloth today are moving into export markets.

France might have had. While France has drifted in critical postwar years, Germany has worked hard. Germany was ready to accept the European Army plan when it was first proposed. But French delay in ratifying it has spoiled the atmosphere. Moreover, the delay has poisoned relations between France and the United States.

For France the bitterest result of vacillation and nonchalance has come in Indochina.

One thing seems certain: anti-Communists, both in Europe and in the United States, are convinced the free world took a beating on the Indochina settlement; that it was a clear victory for the Communists.

France's position in the Far East, once important, now appears to be ended. Even the part of Indochina she holds below the 17th Parallel probably will be lost to her sooner or later. And she inevitably will give up her trifling colonial holdings in India.

All that remains then is Africa. France may yet be in a position to shape a brighter future there. But there is no indication the National Assembly is likely to support any definite Cabinet policy on that front.

Already the slow and painful pattern of Indochina has begun to repeat itself. Reforms are decreed. They are blocked or sidetracked or subverted by local French colonialists. Active fighting on a small scale has started in Tunisia.

Internally, France is doing better than externally. Her domestic production, aided by the Marshall Plan, is 45 percent above 1938. But prices have not lowered to reflect increased efficiency of new factories.

The spread between production costs and consumer prices has been a source of bitter political dispute in France for a generation. It has helped promote Communist party strength. The Communists now get about a fourth of the vote at elections.

Nobody here expects a Communist "putsch," as happened in Czechoslovakia. But the Communist influence has spread into the labor unions, where it is dominant. The Communists can't get control of the government, but they hamper the country's every activity, inside and outside the Legislature. That way they contribute to the feebleness of the whole structure.

Job security, business security and comfort security have become national fetters.

Streets of Paris are still built largely by hand, one square stone being laid laboriously beside another, later to be topped by asphalt. More men work at it that way.

An American city street contractor, visiting in Paris, was asked how long it would take one of his good mechanized crews to do a street repair job near the George V Hotel, where he was staying.

"If I could close off the street, I could finish it in 24 hours," he said.

It took the French five months. Every evaluation of France on an efficiency and power level of course loses sight of its great and continuing contribution to the arts, to good living, to science.

"We would all like to be able to live the way we can live in France," one American official said. Then an associate added: "But how long can America afford it?"

That is the ever pressing problem. Many Frenchmen say the best thing in the world for France would be a break with America which would oblige France to put her economic house in order. But a break might tear down the North Atlantic alliance, a bulwark of American defense. Any "agonizing reappraisal" is bound to take that into consideration.

Other Frenchmen still are confident that something, somebody, will jerk the people out of their inertia. Even before the war there was talk of a coup d'etat which might bring a strong leader to the front.

A few are looking to Mendes-France, to bring a revival of French political vigor. He is brilliant and enterprising. Around him are numbers of enthusiasts who are trying to pattern his progress after the first 100 days of President Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1933.

But in the background sit the same forces which have blocked enterprising premiers for years and years. The same parties which gave him their votes as premier, refused to allow their members to sit in his Cabinet—composed of representatives of the meagerest minority.

Orders Water Be Continued For Smithton

MPS Says It Finds No Proof Bremer Cut System Deliberately

JEFFERSON CITY, July 30.—The Missouri Public Service Commission ordered Stanley E. Bremer to keep on serving the city of Smithton with water at his current rates.

The commission decided the Smithton Water Co. which Bremer operates is a public utility subject to PSC regulations. It said Bremer must comply with commission rules just like any other water utility.

The order ended a dispute that started July 8 when the people of Smithton approved a $60,000 bond issue to build a municipal water system. That same day the water went off in the Smithton Water Co., lines and the 69 customers had no water for most of that day and the next.

The customers charged that Bremer deliberately shut off their water supply from his deep well. Bremer denied this charge and the commission found there was not enough evidence to prove it. The commission said there appeared to be no intentional violations of Bremer's duty to serve the public.

Bremer also asked permission to put water restrictions into effect, because he said his system is overloaded. But the commission ruled there was no need for restrictions at this time.

Under the order, Bremer will have to make periodic reports to the commission and comply with its orders. He cannot increase the rates unless the commission approves.

12 Hurt As Storm Hits a Grandstand

GRANITE CITY, Ill., July 31.—Twelve persons were injured, one seriously, today when a violent wind and rain storm struck during the 12th anniversary ceremonies of the Corps of Engineers dept here.

Most of the injured were on a temporary wooden grandstand which collapsed under the blow.

State Election

nation—State Rep. Clyde M. Kirk, Plattsburg farmer and businessman, and W. F. Davis Gebhart, former consular official from St. Joseph.

It's a three-way race on the Democratic side, too. The candidates are John E. Downs of St. Joseph, Buchanan County prosecuting attorney; W. R. Hull of Weston, farmer and businessman, and William B. Waters of Liberty, Clay County probate judge.

In many counties this year the lack of local contests has raised a question about election night tabulation problems. Returns may be slow from counties where there is little local interest.

But that will not be true in Kansas City where Democratic candidates and a big civic improvement bond program are before the voters.

This will be the first big test for Kansas City's new voting machines, the only ones in operation in Missouri so far. Hamp-ton S. Chambers, chairman of the Kansas City Election board, says he's confident the votes there will be tabulated at record speed.

In addition to nominating candidates for auditor and the 11 congressional seats, the voters choose nominees for half or 17 seats in the state Senate and all 157 posts in the State House of Representatives.

The House now is Republican controlled, 84-71, with two vacancies. The Senate is Democratic 18-16.

Polls open at 6 a.m. local time Tuesday and close at 7 p.m. in cities over 25,000, or at sunset a few minutes after 7 in the rest of the state.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Estella M. Russell

Funeral services for Mrs. Estella Mable Russell, 41, wife of Roy W. Russell, who died Friday afternoon at her home, 600 East 14th, will be held at the Ewing Funeral Home at 3:30 p. m. Monday. The Rev. Thomas W. Croxton, pastor of the First Baptist Church, will officiate.

Burial will be in Highland Memorial Gardens.

Mrs. Russell was born at Billings, Sept. 22, 1912, the daughter of the late William and Ida Mae Garris Baxter. She received her education in the Billings schools, graduating from Billings High School with the class of 1929.

She was married at Mount Vernon, June 7, 1930, to Roy W. Russell. They lived in Springfield until 12 years ago when they came to Sedalia to make their home.

Mrs. Russell was a member of the Baptist Church at Billings. She is survived by her husband, Roy W. Russell; three daughters, Margaret Russell and Virginia Russell of the home, and Mrs. Norman Miller, Columbia; a brother, Ralph Baxter, state of Washington; one half-brother, Roy Walters, Springfield; and her step-mother, Mrs. Marie Baxter, Billings.

The body is at the Ewing Funeral Home.

Mrs. Jessie G. Eells

Mrs. Jessie G. Eells, 78, died at the Campbell Nursing Home, 1401 West Third, at 6:20 a. m. Saturday.

Mrs. Eells was born in Clay County Jan. 22, 1876, daughter of the late Jefferson B. and Mary Endicott Mosby.

She lived most of her life in Clay County and in Kansas City and was married at Drexel, Jan. 23, 1899, to Eliza C. Wells. They were the parents of three children. Mr. Eells died May 2, 1943.

She resided in Sedalia for several years following the death of her husband and was a member of the First Christian Church.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Dorothy Moore, Chicago, Mrs. Evelyn Cogdill, Prairie Village, Kan.; one son, Elmer C. Eells, Glasgow, one sister, Mrs. Gertrude Murdock, Anaheim, Calif.; and six grandchildren.

The Rev. J. W. Watts, pastor of the East Broadway Christian Church, will officiate at the funeral service to be held at 11 a. m. Monday at the Ewing Funeral Home.

Burial will be in the Memorial Park Cemetery.

The body is at the Ewing Funeral Home.

The Rev. Roy L. Bowers, pastor of the First Methodist Church, will officiate.

Palbearers will be Henry Keick, L. L. Haggard, W. W. Berry, William Dey, Edward Alt and Louise Heisterberg.

Burial will be in the Crown Hill Cemetery.

The body is at the Ewing Funeral Home.

Francis (Frank) Wilson

Funeral services for Francis "Frank" Wilson, 73, former resident of the Green Ridge community, who died at the Bothwell Hospital Friday morning, were held at the Ewing Funeral Home at 3 p. m. Saturday.

The Rev. Ed. Hurd, pastor of the Epworth Methodist Church, officiated.

Mrs. Ed. Ringen and Mrs. F. O. Withers sang "Going Down the Valley" and "Rock of Ages," accompanied by Mrs. Paul Bert-houex at the organ.

Palbearers were Victor Ward, Ed. George, A. N. Baker, Emmett Bagby, Roy Kirehoffer and P. L. Storle.

Burial was in the Hickory Point Cemetery.

Bank Teller, 60, Swims Mississippi River Twice

ST. LOUIS, July 31.—A 60-year-old Columbus, Ohio, bank teller who swims for a hobby made a round trip crossing of the Mississippi River here today.

James N. Stepley used a side stroke to make the crossing to the Illinois side in 18 minutes, rested momentarily on a sand bar and then swam back in 17 minutes.

The river is about 1,300 feet wide at his point of crossing.

Warn of Forest Fires

DONIPHAN, Mo., July 31.—Hardy Martin of the U. S. Forest Service today warned residents and tourists in southeast Missouri to be very careful of fires over the weekend.

He said conditions in the forests because of the drought were the worst in two years. He reported five fires had occurred in 48 hours ending today but that all were discovered in time to be put out without extensive damage.

Discipline Misfires

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP)—Mrs. Ann Burkhead, aimed a spank at her unruly 4-year-old son. Then she went to a hospital. A fish stringer the boy was holding behind him went through her right hand.

IS IT IMPORTANT?

We hope you never have to say sadly, in later years, "we started to buy once, but just didn't go ahead with it."

THE SEDALIA DEMOCRAT
Sedalia, Missouri, Sunday Morning, August 1, 1954

Sen. Kefauver, Gov. Clement Fighting To Win

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 31.—Fighting-mad candidates for governor and the U. S. Senate showed their campaigns into high gear this week in a home-stretch appeal for votes in Thursday's Democratic primary.

A victory in this primary is the same as election in heavily Democratic Tennessee.

The incumbents are Sen. Estes Kefauver, who tried for his party's Presidential nod in 1952, and Gov. Frank Clement at 34, the youngest chief executive in the nation.

Kefauver is opposed by Rep. Pat Sutton. Clement's opponent is former Gov. Gordon Browning, the man Clement beat two years ago.

The third man in the race, Judge Raulston Schoolfield of Chattanooga, is campaigning solely on a pro-segregation platform.

The next governor's term, beginning in January, is for four years instead of two because of a change in the state constitution.

The Senate race, which has been partly eclipsed by the bombastic attacks in the gubernatorial campaign, is a battle between two of the state's hardest campaigners using completely different vote-getting methods.

Sutton, a showman, travels by helicopter, making up to 3 stops a day, and goes on radio and television for marathon broadcasts of more than 24 hours.

The quiet-mannered Kefauver, who travels some by airplane, depends on fewer speeches and fewer gimmicks but spends more time shaking hands.

The coonskin cap which Kefauver used extensively in his 1948 campaign and in his bid for the Presidency has remained in mothballs this summer.

Lincoln U. Opens Door To Whites

JEFFERSON CITY, July 31.—Lincoln University for Negroes here today was thrown open to white students as well by its board of curators.

The school, dream of Negro veterans of the War between the States, became a Missouri-supported university in 1879. In all the intervening years it has been open only to members of the Negro race.

A demand for educational opportunities grew among the state's Negroes. Missouri expanded the facilities and added new fields of study for the students.

Today the university's board of curators said simply in a statement: "Since the federal Supreme Court has decided that the public schools of the country shall no longer be segregated because of race, the Board of Curators of Lincoln University makes available at this time the offerings of this institution to any qualified student who may apply for admission to study here."

Tough On Trees

WHALEYVILLE, Va. (AP)—An automobile went out of control here, leaped a ditch and came to rest in a tree. Trooper Joe Bryant reported that three occupants suffered only minor cuts but the tree had to be cut down to get the car back to earth.

Two cars were damaged in front of 244 South Quincy at 9:25 a.m. Saturday, when one car sideswiped another. Cars involved

N. C. Mountain Marksmen In Annual Catalochee Shoot

By DION HENDERSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

Long barreled rifles in the hands of mountain men will speak up right smartly North Carolina way next Wednesday morning, with family pride as much an issue as on some more ominous shooting occasions in the past.

This time, though, they're aiming for feats instead of funerals. And when the blackpowder smoke clears from Fire Top Mountain along about sundown, the best mountain-style marksmen in the annual Catalochee shoot will have nothing but full quarters of prize beef to carry home.

Flat land foreigners can get into this competition, but they have no

LOOKS TO 91ST BIRTHDAY TUESDAY—Mrs. Sarah Pellett, who has been at the Campbell Nursing Home since January, will be 91 years old Tuesday, Aug. 3. She was born on Aug. 3, 1863, and has lived most of her life in Sedalia. Granny is a sweetheart," said one of the women at the nursing home. "She is always happy and cheerful, we just couldn't get along without her. She keeps up our morale." Granny looked beyond the nurse and at the large mirror over the mantel. "You look at yourself all day long in the mirror, don't you?" said the nurse. "You know how you look." "I look at myself in the mirror," said Granny, and she smiled up again at the nurse. She made a nice picture in the mirror too, in her pink gown and her white hair parted in the middle and braided in two little braids which were pinned across her head. Mrs. Pellett, who has one daughter, Mrs. Laura Reed of Kansas City, has been bedfast for a long time and her daughter often comes down to see her. She hopes maybe she will get down next week to help her celebrate her birthday, but she isn't sure. But Granny knows she will have a nice birthday because everything is nice with her. She has learned how to be happy. (Walch Photo)

Corn Growers
Get More Time
On Loan Choice

Because of the severe damage to corn caused by this summer's drought, Missouri corn growers will be given more time in which to decide whether to repay their CCC loans or deliver their corn, Murray C. Colbert, state Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation chairman, said today. County ASC offices were instructed today that they might delay issuance of delivery notices on 1932, 1933 and 1934 crop corn, now under price support, provided that the entire loan programs are liquidated by Oct. 1, 1934. July 31 is the maturity date on CCC corn loans.
Farmers who originally intended to deliver their corn in satisfaction of loans, are now considering repaying the loans and keeping the corn. Some will undoubtedly prefer to sell their purchase agreement corn on the market.

Chairman Colbert said. "The state committee feels that the farmer should have a longer time in which to review present crop conditions and decide where his corn will do him the most good."

Merry-Go-Round

Enemies of Crime-Bustin' Coon
Cap Kefauver Out to Defeat Him

By Drew Pearson
WASHINGTON—Two short summers ago at Chicago, in similar torrid weather, scores of delegates were throwing coonskin caps in the air, shouting, voting, and vowing to fight to the bitter end for a man named Kefauver.

This gangling, bespectacled young man had captured the national imagination. His crime probe had exposed the underworld as no other expose in history. He had won primary after primary, even trouncing the President of the United States. And on the floor of the emotion-packed Chicago convention, people actually wept when Kefauver threw in the sponge.

Today, things have changed. Today, Frankie Costello, once omnipotent king of the gambling world, is in jail, put there first by the Kefauver committee. Today, a hundred top leaders of the racket underworld are listed for deportation. The race wire, onetime lucrative racket of Mickey McBride, has been put out of business. Today, a law is on the statute books putting a tax on bookmakers and requiring them to register.

But today also, one of those Kefauver delegates at Chicago, Albert D. Patterson, newly nominated attorney general of Alabama, is dead. He was killed by the mob at Phenix City, Ala., after his election on a pledge to clean up. Today also, the underworld appears to be pouring money into Tennessee to defeat Kefauver, the man who gave them the fight of their lives.

As a result, Kefauver is fighting for his political life.

The Money Pours In

Most amazing political development in the Kefauver battle is that so much money could flow into a state to support such an unknown and dubious candidate as Congressman Pat Sutton. However, money has come into Tennessee to finance Sutton's helicopter at a cost of around $20,000 and a series of radio-TV talkathons, undoubtedly costing more than $40,000. Kefauver, on the other hand, is getting $1 bills from admirers everywhere, but it takes a lot of $1 bills to run a modern senate campaign.

Before examining the interesting source of Sutton's campaign funds, it may be equally interesting to examine Sutton himself.

The congressman is a likable man with one of the best developed yens for nepotism in Congress today. If there are any members of his immediate family he has not helped to put on the public payroll, no one seems to know their names.

He has written no legislation while in Congress, though he has introduced two bills of help to slot-machine operators and deportable gangsters. But he has certainly used the taxpayers' money to help his family.

Nepotism Roll Call

Here is a roll call of other members of the Sutton family who have been feeding at the taxpayers' expense:

Joe Sutton, brother of the congressman, was put on the payroll of the congressman's office staff in 1951 at a salary of $3,422 and continued to draw a salary through 1953. He spent his time in Tennessee.

Lillian A. Evans Sutton, who married the congressman's nephew, has been drawing a salary while attending the Middle Tennessee Teachers College. At that time—about a year ago—she was paid $2,127 as a member of the congressman's office staff, though actually in school. Later she came to Washington, was paid by the taxpayers while she studied stenotyping, and is now at long last finally in Sutton's office, with an increase in salary to $4,590.

Clifton Tucker, though not kinsin' kin of the congressman, is one of the most interesting members of his staff. He draws the top salary of $8,492 and is supposed to be the congressman's No. 1 assistant. However, he happens to be a Rutherford County dairy farmer and spends all his time in Tennessee. He has been seen in Washington only once. The cows won't let him get away for more than one milking.

Let's Hope This Phone Idea
Won't Become a Popular Fad

By Ruth Millett

The American magazine has a picture story of a housewife who has solved the problem of how to do all the telephone talking she wants to do and still get her housework done.

The resourceful wife uses a headphone and 15-foot extension cord that enables her to chatter along with friends and relatives while she does the ironing, feeds the baby, gives herself a manicure, etc.

The headphone set leaves both hands free. The long cord permits walking around. So the housewife can walk and talk as she works.

Let's hope this ingenious arrangement doesn't become a fad among housewives who love to talk on the telephone.

For the chronic telephone talker is already almost impossible to hang up on.

The big talker usually chatters along until she, herself, has to interrupt the conversation because it is time to take a roast out of the oven, or start dinner, or because she hears a knock at the door.

If she had a headphone set and long cord attached, she could easily perform these chores—and keep right on yakking.

Compounding the Crime

In self-defense her friends would have to get headphone sets and then the conversations might last for hours at a time.

And just think what talking marathons the teen-agers could go on if they ever got hold of telephone headphones.

If a teen-ager could manicure her nails, set her hair in pin curls, and raid the ice box—all the while talking on the telephone to her best friend—the family telephone situation would be even worse than it is now in homes with teen-agers.

Science is a wonderful thing—up to a point. But the point is reached when it makes it possible for housewives and teen-agers to spend more time on telephone conversations.

Two Theories

Some naturalists thing the middle western prairies always were treeless, being too level and swampy for trees to grow, while another theory is that the Indians burned away the forests to make more grazing land for bison and to drive out game.

A New Era for France

By Bruce Biossat

The raw facts of geography make it plain the Indo-Chinese truce is a smashing defeat for France and the free nations.

As a result of it, the Communist rebels under Ho Chi Minh will control the great northern cities of Hanoi and Haiphong, and the rich, populous Red River delta surrounding them. They also gain a small pocket of land in the neighboring state of Laos.

This land the news did not have when the war began in December, 1949. It was gained by force and the threat of force. Few military men doubt that the key portions the delta yielded in this truce would have fallen to the Communists soon if the war had continued. France's military position there had deteriorated seriously.

In other words, the French were not able to obtain a truce which was not a defeat. They were lucky the Communists willingly proposed terms they could accept with any grace at all.

Under the agreement, the principal Indo-Chinese state, Viet Nam, is partitioned near the 17th parallel, at a point where it is quite narrow. Laos and Cambodia are to be neutralized, which means the French, no less than the Communists, will be barred from maintaining armed forces there.

Elections will be held in all three states later on to determine their political future. Here France won some advantage, since the voting will take place later than the Reds wanted. The latter obviously believe that elections held now would go strongly in their favor.

This belief emphasizes the weakness of the French in Indo-China in this war. The great upsurge of native nationalism there lay at the root of this conflict, yet the French largely ignored it until it was too late. Thus they never won more than half-hearted support even from the Indo-Chinese who wished to resist communism.

Whether in the interval between the cease fire and the Indo-China elections the French can convince the natives that their destiny still lies with the free West is a grave question. Most hard-headed observers today are expressing doubt.

For two reasons, the truce is cheering news. First, the world must always find some satisfaction in an ending of bloodshed. The guns have stopped in one more small hot war.

Second, however grim the truce terms, the mere fact of the truce is a political victory for French Premier Mendes-France and must accordingly be hailed. He promised agreement by July 20 and said he would quit if he failed. He missed the deadline by just two hours.

Free nations cannot help but be heartened when a French statesman today succeeds in doing what he said he would. It is the first show of real leadership in France in many a year, and we must pray it is the beginning of a new era of more positive French action on the world scene.

From the ashes of the Indo-China defeat, France may start the long climb upward to a new position of strength and honor.

Symptoms of Ulcer Vary
According to Location

By Edwin F. Jordan, M.D.

Numerous correspondents have requested information on one of today's most common medical problems: ulcer of the stomach or peptic ulcer.

This information desired covers a wide range, such as what an ulcer is, what are the different kinds, what forms of treatment are used and even whether the condition is serious.

First, I should like to say that there are two principal kinds of peptic ulcer, both often commonly called ulcer of the stomach. In one the ulcer is located in the stomach itself (gastric ulcer) and in the other just below the outlet of the stomach in the first portion of the intestines (duodenal ulcer).

The symptoms of these two kinds of ulcers may be quite similar or there may be differences. Also it is not safe to assume that the same symptoms in two different patients mean an ulcer in the same location, because the symptoms often vary from person to person.

The pain or distress of an ulcer in the stomach itself usually comes on soon after meals and is associated with some tenderness just below the breastbone. It may disappear for days at a time. Other digestive disturbances or sensations are common.

Vomiting several hours after eating is one. The pain when present may be burning or gnawing in nature and may come and go for several hours. Bleeding is also frequent and often makes the bowel waste look like tar.

The symptoms of an ulcer in the duodenum are often similar and the physician cannot tell from the symptoms alone where the ulcer is located. In duodenal ulcer, however, the discomfort or pain is more likely to come two or three hours after a meal rather than immediately after eating.

Vomiting is not as common as in an ulcer located in the stomach itself. The exact diagnosis of the location of the ulcer depends on the results of careful history taking, X-rays, examination of the stomach contents, and sometimes looking into the stomach with an instrument called a gastroscope or photographing the lining.

If the ulcer eats through the wall of the stomach, the contents will be spilled into the abdominal cavity, and this is a dangerous complication. Bleeding is the other man complication.

Certainly suspicious symptoms should not be ignored.

Protection Needed

Air Force jet aircraft experts and guided missile people in the Army are becoming increasingly concerned over the toxic effects of jet and rocket exhaust gasses. There have been no deaths nor serious accidents from either source yet.

Army Chemical Corps is running a research project on the problem at Edgewood, Md., chemical training center.

There is no broad danger to the general public, however. For by the time the flight exhaust gasses reach the ground, they are so diffused that they have no ill effects. It's the ground crews handling jets and missiles who must be protected.

Eggs, Fresh and a Million
Years Old, Offered In S. D.

By HAL BOYLE

RAPID CITY, S.D. (AP)—Leaves from a touring reporter's notebook: They have fresh hens' eggs on restaurant menus here—and 60-million-year-old dinosaur eggs in museums.

But the naive tourist who does well to beware of any souvenir bargains offered him in dried porcine eggs. They are nothing but dried cockleburrs, fixed up by local pranksters to kid the visitors.

The Black Hills, home of free-roaming buffalo and the famous Mt. Rushmore memorial, has had a fabulous past. The area now has become one of the nation's big tourist meccas, but a guy from out of town finds it hard to know what to believe. For the folks here still have the old pioneer fondness for a good yarn, whether it is actually a true story or only a tall tale.

Take Wind Cave, for example. When has 10 miles of explored passage-ways and several huge chambers. One called "the bride's chamber" was named, according to a guide, because of a girl who figured the only way she could carry out a promise to her mother she would never marry the best man on earth—and still get the guy she wanted—was to marry him in the cavern.

But no such ceremonies have been allowed, according to the same guide, because "naturally the government doesn't want to run matrimony into the ground."

Everyone recalls the tragic fate of Gen. George A. Custer and more than 200 men wiped out in the battle of the Little Big Horn River in Montana on June 25, 1876. The Indians, who always resented the fact the battle was called a "massacre," still point out that the white troops were fully armed—and they weren't packing water pistols.

Few today remember, however, that Custer was sent to the Black Hills in 1874, following the financial panic of 1873, to check on reports the hills held gold.

Custer set forth on his journey from a fort on the present site of Bismarck, N.D., with a force of 100 men led by a brass band mounted on white horses. The expedition, accompanied by the son of President U.S. Grant, carried

The express agent immediately issued a newspaper ad advising bullion shippers:

"The spring cleanup will leave for Cheyenne on the regular stage at 7 a. m. next Monday. Wyatt Earp will ride shotgun."

The shippers, eager for this kind of protection, loaded $200,000 on the coach. Earp got the shipment through on time and without incident—except for wining a passing horseman he thought rode too close.

Even in the Wild West advertising paid.

That was the time Wyatt Earp, an authentic gun fighter, rode as guard on the stage. Earp, who had made his name earlier as marshal of bloody Dodge City and Abilene, had spent an unprofitable year selling wood and coal in Deadwood. He agreed to go as guard on the stage to Cheyenne for passage money and $50 in cash—and because he wanted to move on.

XXVI

I THOUGHT real fast and said that the insurance course was two nights a week, which gave me a night for wrestling when I could get bouts. Betty Jane said: "Do you think your father will pay for the courses for you if you're not working yet?"

I could have snorted with laughter at that one, which went to show how much Betty Jane knew my old man, but I only said that I was sure I'd get the money someplace, which I was.

All that winter I learned how to sell insurance in the course at the Y. I made up my mind that if there was an easy way to make a living, that was it. A lot of the course consisted of one fellow coming into an office, which wasn't there, of course, but the class pretended it was. In the office was a fellow sitting at the desk of the teacher and the fellow coming in would say to him, "Good morning, Mr. Jones. A beautiful morning, isn't it, because with insurance agents every day is beautiful."

A $100,000 policy was a mere drop in the bucket, as everybody wanted insurance as soon as their buyer's resistance was over, which we learned the secret of.

This class was on Wednesday nights, and I only hoped Betty Jane wouldn't call up the Y and find out it wasn't on Friday nights too. I had become what you might call a regular attraction at Betty's club in Baltimore on Fridays. Milo spent so much of his time chasing around to Scranton or Detroit or wherever Dawn O'Day was, resulting in my having to go to Baltimore by train.

Frank Loman helped me a lot that way, him being Pancho Lopez, who had been my first versus in Baltimore. We wrestled each other five or six times in grudge matches when I was always a hero and he was booed at. But with the fans you can't carry grudges too long as they get tired of that, so we wrestled numerous other adversaries among which were some of the best wrestlers that came to Baltimore. As it wasn't such a hot wrestling town except for Benny's little club, that wasn't saying much. At the matches in Camden, where Frank was always billed as Chief Choctaw, we never wrestled together. It would have been bad for two popular grapplers to be matched against each other, as then who would the fans yell at?

I SAID that Milo was always driving to places where Dawn O'Day was performing, which was her word for her act and not mine, but he could have had plenty of time to wrestle if Benny had given him bouts. Milo got so depressed that I finally went to Benny myself and insisted that Milo get matches.

Lefkoe said, "Look, Honeyboy, you got to be reasonable. Haven't I treated you good and haven't you been making more dough than you ever did in your life before?"

I started to say something but he cut me off. "I know what you're going to say, about how wonderful a wrestler this Milo is, but you have to have two to wrestle and who can I match him with? For one thing, when he gets on the mat, he starts right in throwing everybody out, giving the customers no show for their money. Look at the six-man rattle royal he was in last, which he won by bumping the other fellows' heads together. For one thing, it is dangerous for those fellows."

"But he won." "Sure he did. If I put him in there with a whole cage of gorillas, he would come out the winner." He chewed on his cigar. "Say, that's an idea."

I put a stop to him right away.

some pennies and he put them in the little pocket of his suit, but the pocket had a hole in it and the pennies slipped through. When his mother asked about what he had done with the pennies, he reached in his pocket and they were gone. It was then that his mother discovered the hole in his pocket. But losing the pennies didn't bother the youngster.

"On, well," he said in a matter of fact manner, "We'll stop by the store and get some more."—H. L.

Two small boys have bicycles and both being too young to ride them in the street have been riding them around the neighborhood on the sidewalk. They ride up to the corner, turn the corner and ride for a half block to the alley, then turn around and come back. The largest one of the two doesn't go clear to the alley, but circles around in the yard of the home on the corner. The smallest one always goes clear to the alley and being too little and inexperienced to turn the bike usually gets off, turns it around and gets back on it.

One evening recently they started to ride and the larger boy yelled to the little one as he started to circle through the neighbor's yard, "I'm taking the short cut."

Quick as a wink the little one yelled back, "I'm taking the long cut," and he rode on up to the alley and turned around.—H. L.

Grasshoppers

The straight winged leaping insects Which hop through fields of grain, Fields that are left as total wrecks From them and lack of rain. Are mighty hungry fellows from The way they seem to chew They hardly left a little crumb Of anything that grew; They ate the peaches off the tree And left but just the seeds, They nibble on whatever they see They even like the weeds; Now over in another land They make a tasty diet. They grind them up and think they're grand, I wouldn't want to try it! The Great Plains Indians found them Delightful food when roasted But no matter how they ground them Or served them, baked or toasted I wouldn't like them—this I know— For any type of meal They just don't seem to sound as though They had much food appeal. The birds think they're delicious And the fish eat them for bait And they should be so nutritious From the wholesome things they ate, So to those who care to eat 'em They are welcome to the lot And we'd be so glad to treat 'em They can have just all we've got.

"No friend of mine is going to wrestle a lot of gorillas." "Maybe we could get a bear," Benny said, getting all excited over the idea.

"Also strictly out." "Another gimmick I thought of was matching him with a very tall guy. My idea is to fix up a platform about a foot and a half high for Milo to wrestle on, to bring him up even with the big fellow. It's a new angle."

"It ain't even a curve." Then I started to do some talking. "What would you say if I could get a versus for Milo who looks practically exactly like him except he's eight inches taller and has a square head instead of an egg head?"

"I know what it's going to be. Milo will throw him."

"Correct," I answered, "because he's the greatest wrestler in the world, as who else could have thrown three men at one time like Milo did? And it seems a shame that a guy so good shouldn't get a chance to prove it in something other than mud."

"I KNOW, that's always the trouble with a guy who's so good, and in Milo's case it's complicated by being so funny-looking. I've thought of trying to match him with a fellow like John Pesek, who is so good that there are few of the top-notchers who will take a match with him." "Milo could throw him," I said confidently.

"You would say that, and he should, because this Pesek is a light man and would be giving away a lot of weight, but it wouldn't draw."

When Lefkoe made up his mind it was instantaneous or even faster. "Okay, you can offer a match to this big fellow. What's his name?"

"Herman Glutz." "I have heard of comedy relief, but this is a comedy without the relief. Can't we bill him under some other name?"

"Herman is proud of his name and might not like to change it." "Okay, make it comedy all the way. I'll put them on as the Great Glutz and the Mighty Milo."

"Right in your own back yard," as the old song says, there's a summer of safe fun for the children. "Water play," highly restricted most of the year, is an all-ages favorite for nearly all children, and even a good sudsing can be made into a game.

By Kay Sherwood NEA Staff Writer

Summer is the time and the back yard is the place to relax the rules of playtime procedure for small children.

Some of the prescribed routines that must be followed indoors can be set aside in warm weather to the mutual benefit of a busy homemaker and her offspring.

"Water play," for example, is a ready-made outdoor pastime. Nursery-school teachers have told me frequently that small children seldom get enough "water play."

With some reason, I think, because few of us can permit a child to dabble and splash to his heart's content indoors.

On warm, sunny days, however, the picture changes. Even a toddler will enjoy patting and splashing his hands in a little pan of water. A small wading pool is fun for older children, but so, we discovered, is an old dishpan with a couple of inches of water in it.

It can serve as a lake for "boats" made from twigs and leaves, as a washbasin for dolls' clothes and as the source for the prime ingredient for mud pies.

Naturally when small children are playing around a pool you MUST keep an eye on them. I prefer to add water to pool or pan as it's needed rather than fill up the container all at once.

If your kitchen can-opener slices can tops off smoothly, save the empties for mud-pie molds, dippers and "measuring" cups. I also like flexible plastic cups and old wood-

Refugee Schools

NEW DELHI — Fifty thousand Delhi school children are receiving their education in teaching shops operated largely by displaced refugees from what is now Pakistan.

Most of these schools function in crowded one-room space or in open tents. Because of the shortage of public school facilities they have no lack of patronage.

Refugee teachers for a time attempted to operate universities granting easy degrees to those unable to obtain admission to recognized schools. The government soon clamped down on such institutions but the teaching shops continued. Now the government, unable to provide substitutes for these places, is seeking to force them to subscribe to minimum educational standards.

en mixing spoons as useful tools for the grubby-dabblers.

These utensils don't get hot to the touch, are almost unbreakable and their rounded edges mean fewer hurts if one child takes a crack at another.

Left-over soap sippers and a sponge can generate a sudsy scrubdown outdoors that's fun (and cleansing) even for children who protest identical treatment in the bathtub.

Instead of insisting on prompt attendance at the lunch table, try carrying lunch to the players in the cool of the porch or under a shady tree. Play will cease with fewer squawks, and the kitchen stays considerably neater.

and practically work-free meal. Let the children help themselves from the basket, and teach them to drop the rinds, shells and crusts directly into a paper sack. All the cleanup you'll have to do is to consign the trash to the garbage can.

The children, of course, won't miss a picnic table. Hungry young ones eat anywhere, anytime and anywhere, with or without a special invitation.

However, it's easy to improvise one, and you'd better do so.

Another In Famous Crimes Series—

Dillinger Always on the Run
From Jails, Holdups, Killings

During his incredible crime career, John Dillinger is now—two decades later—remembered as the last of the big-time gangsters. Here is a fast-paced account of how the Indiana bad man lived and died, written by a reporter who covered many of the news stories when Dillinger was making crime history.

By WILLIAM J. CONWAY

CHICAGO, July 31 (AP)—John Dillinger had been a good boy, the State Clemency Commission was told. And he was needed to care for his aging father.

Thus on a spring day in 1933, prison gates opened and Dillinger was off and running on an incredible career of crime.

He kept going for 14 months. During that time he achieved:

A prison break, two jail breaks, three raids on police station arsenals, at least half a dozen bank robberies and 10 violent deaths.

Three times he slithered and shot his way out of police traps.

He robbed and ran, wooed and ran, fought and ran.

He sometimes was reported seen at towns hundreds of miles apart on the same day. He became a sort of living legend.

Dillinger was paroled after serving nine years of a 10-to-21-year sentence for assault and battery with intent to rob an elderly citizen of his home town, Mooresville, a rural village in central Indiana.

He walked out of the prison at Michigan City, Ind., May 23, 1933. He was 31, a little known man of unimpressive stature. At 5 feet 7, he weighed about 153, had thin, lank brown hair and a mocking half smile.

Prohibition was ending. Traffickers in bootleg liquor were looking for a fast dollar in other fields. Dillinger looked around too and decided to pluck his fast dollars from banks.

He was arrested on a charge of bank robbery Sept. 22, 1933, at the home of a girl friend in Dayton, Ohio, and was taken to jail in Lima.

Four days later, 10 convicts — prison pals of Dillinger — burst out of the Michigan City prison. Dillinger later acknowledged that he had helped plan the break. He explained:

"I stick to my friends and they stick to me."

And several of them did stick with him. They swooped down on the Lima jail Oct. 12, killed Sheriff Jess Sarber and liberated Dillinger.

The Dillinger mob was a coagulation of prison scum, the men who had broken out of the penitentiary and others who had been paroled.

During the next six months desperadoes raided police arsenals at Peru, Auburn and Warsaw, Ind., and snatched guns and ammunition.

The first elaborate snare for Dillinger was set up Nov. 15 in Chicago. Sixteen Indiana and Chicago policemen took stations near a physician's office, but Dillinger

Wheat Class
Won't Change
Rate on Loans

The U. S. Department of Agriculture announced today that the price support program for the 1955 crop of wheat will not provide a loan rate differential for classes of wheat stored in the soft winter wheat producing states of the Rocky Mountains. Under the 1954 crop price support program, a discount of 4 cents a bushel under the basic loan rate for hard wheat was established for the soft classes of wheat stored in this area, in order to effect a closer relationship between price supports and actual market prices for classes of wheat.

In announcing this change in loan rate differential, officials of the department pointed out that it was desirable to avoid the shifting of wheat acreage in the eastern area from soft to hard varieties, which the trade fears might result from a relatively more favorable loan rate such as that in effect for hard varieties of winter wheat in this area in 1954. The department recognizes that "hard" types of wheat lose their high milling quality when grown in the "soft" winter wheat belt which is more humid and not conducive to maintaining the high quality protein content desired in hard wheat varieties.

somehow jockeyed his car through the obstacle course. The automobile was found later, its body dented and glass splintered by at least 30 bullets.

Dillinger killed policeman William P. O'Malley Jan. 15, 1934, during a bank robbery in East Chicago, Ind., and again took it on the lam.

Ten days later, police in Tucson, Ariz., picked up Dillinger, three gun pals, three women and $27,000 in cash. Dillinger bragged:

"I can get out of jail any time." That boast soon was recalled across the nation.

He was placed in jail at Crown Point, Ind., to await trial for murdering O'Malley.

On the morning of March 3, nine days before the trial was to begin, Dillinger sprang himself and a fellow prisoner, Herbert Youngblood.

When Ernest Blunk, a guard, entered the cell to obtain the fingerprints of another inmate, Dillinger drew a wooden gun and disarmed him. He rounded up the other guards, locked them up and left.

The law caught up with him again March 31 in St. Paul, Minn., but he shot his way out of an apartment. He headed for a hideout in the north woods of Wisconsin.

Dillinger, George (Babyface) Nelson, five other hoodlums and three girls moved into the Little Bohemia resort near Mercer, Wis., April 20. They barged in, took charge, mounted a machine gun on the roof and posted a guard.

Federal and local officers gathered outside the fortress on the dark, cold evening of Sunday, April 22.

Three men, who had stopped in for a drink, left about 10 p.m. The officers ordered them to halt. The men didn't hear the order.

Watchdogs began to bark. The machine gun on the roof chattered. The officers returned the fire.

Eugene Boissoneau, one of the men who had just left the bar, was caught in the crossfire and killed.

Scrambling out through a rear window, the gangsters left the women behind and fled through the woods.

Nelson reached a nearby resort a few minutes ahead of searching officers. He fired a machine gun into one officer's car and W. Carter Baum, a federal agent, was killed. Two other officers were wounded.

Dillinger scuttled to Chicago and hid out there in the summer of 1934. Eight of his mobsters had been captured and three had been shot to death. But Dillinger apparently felt safe.

His hair had been darkened with dye. His face had been lifted in plastic surgery. He wore a black mustache and gold-rimmed spectacles. He assumed phony names and passed himself off as an employee of the Board of Trade.

On the night of Sunday, July 22, he went to the Biograph Theater at 2433 N. Lincoln Ave., a neighborhood movie house. With him were a girl friend, Polly Hamilton, and Mrs. Anna Sage.

Dillinger wore a white shirt, gray trousers and white shoes — the attire of a man enjoying an evening of relaxation.

He wouldn't have been relaxed if he had known Mrs. Sage—thereafter called the "Woman in Red"—had informed officials he would attend the movie that night.

Mrs. Sage had put the finger on him for two reasons: to collect a $5,000 reward (which she did) and to escape deportation to her native Romania as an undesirable alien (which she didn't).

While Dillinger and the two women were inside watching "Manhattan Melodrama," 17 federal agents and five officers from East Chicago, Ind., were deployed near the theater.

Dillinger escorted the women from the theater at 10:40 p. m. They turned left and strolled down the street.

A G-man moved an arm in a casual, prearranged signal.

Dillinger passed a doorway. Two officers sauntered out. One glided across the sidewalk and then approached Dillinger from behind on his right. The other officer came up from behind on the left. A third officer, who had been loitering at the curb, moved in directly behind him.

Dillinger darted into an alley and reached for a trouser pocket to draw a pistol.

The three stalking officers shot. Three of the five bullets fired struck Dillinger.

He died in the dust of the alley.

To The Democratic Voters:
While I have talked with many, I find that it has been virtually impossible to see everyone, so I am taking this opportunity to tell you something about who I am and why I believe I can make you a good public official.

I have been in business in Sedalia for 30 years—operating a filling station and garage at 16th and Grand. My son is operating it at present. For the past year I have been a salesman for Bryant Motor Company, selling auto parts. I resigned the first of July. I take a great deal of pride in the fact that some of our customers of today started trading with me when I opened my business 30 years ago.

This may not be important, and may be no index to my qualifications for the office I am seeking, but we are all proud of the organizations we belong to, so I list mine here: I am a veteran of World War I, am an active member of the First Methodist Church; I belong to the Masonic Lodge, the Eastern Star, Elks, Moose and Chamber of Commerce.

If I am elected I will render to the people of Pettis County the same honest, fair, conscientious service I gave to my customers all the years I was active in our garage and station.

Tam Golf Begins Thursday With Record Purse, Entries

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
CHICAGO, July 31 (P)—Golf's most fantastic tournament, the Tam O'Shanter gold rush, starts today with the world's best men and women players stampeding for shares of a record $205,000 purse.

There is a total field of nearly 700—all-time high for a golf meet. Entry fees range from $10 to $25. Of the 700, Promoter George S. May has exempted 104 from qualifying, based on past records.

This leaves 104 more to win berths through 18 hole qualifying rounds Monday through Wednesday.

It takes no slide rule to figure that of the original 700 who pay entry fees, nearly 500 never will get a chance for the unprecedented prize list.

The first section of the Tam O'Shanter gold rush runs 72 holes Thursday through Sunday. It is called the All-American tournament.

Competing simultaneously will be 136 men pros, 24 men amateurs, 24 women pros and 16 women amateurs. After 36 holes, the field of men pros will be trimmed to the 64 low scorers.

First prize for men pros will be $34,200 with the list scaled to $65 for 40th place. The winning women's pro will collect $10,000 in a list that is graded down to $150.

Amateurs receive merchandise valued up to $150 retail.

The All-American, however, merely served as a warmup for May's "World Championships" Aug. 12-15. These, too, are in four sections of medal play for 72 holes—men pros and amateurs, and women pros and amateurs.

Brutus Hamilton Raises Level Of Track And Field Records

By TED SMITH

NEW YORK, July 31 (P)—Brutus Hamilton has for the third time in 20 years raised the level of the records he thinks men can achieve in athletics in the foreseeable future.

Out of his 18 "perfect records" first charted in 1934 for the standard Olympic events, all but four have been broken, and one of these has been tied. Of his revised list of 1952, two already have fallen. Now he has lifted the sights on seven more marks.

Still unanswered is the question of limits beyond which man cannot go.

Hamilton named the supra-athletic goals he might achieve his new, glittering goals. Among the foreigners are Roger Bannister of England, John Landy of Australia and Emil Zatopek of Czechoslovakia. The Americans, with their past or present collegiate affiliations, included Parry O'Brien, Jim Lea, Jack Davis and Ernie Shelton of Southern California; Bud Hays of Stanford; Johnny Bennett of Marquette; Fortune Gordien of Minnesota; Jim Dillon of Auburn; Lou Jones of Manhattan; and J.W. Mashburn of Oklahoma.

Peering into the crystal ball, Hamilton can see the 62-foot shot put, a 275-foot javelin throw, 7 feet 1-inch in the high jump, 200 feet in the discus, 16 feet in the pole vault (admittedly very distant), 45.9 in the 400 meters, and 39.0 in the 400-meter hurdles. These are the records where he raised the objectives.

The possibility of breaking records in the sprints is remote, Hamilton thinks.

Hamilton is recognized not only as a great track coach but also as an authority on records. He is director of athletics at the University of California and was head coach of the sensational success of 1952 American Olympic team.

With Bannister and Landy finally breaking the four-minute barrier in the mile, and O'Brien breaking 60 feet in the shot, 1954 is in the books as a stellar year in track.

What lies personal letter to the Associated Press from Berkeley, Calif., Hamilton has this to say:

Shot put: "Parry O'Brien is an amazing athlete, motivated by an intense desire to achieve. He has the physical attributes of a very few athletes of my acquaintance have possessed. Unquestionably he will improve his mark of 60 feet, 10 inches since he is only 22 years old and his best years should be ahead of him. How far he will improve is a matter of conjecture, but a 62-foot put seems well within his potentialities. When he finally decides to concentrate upon the discus I think he will make some amazing marks in that event also. He may be the first to throw 200 feet." (Parry's record of 60 feet, 10 inches is up for approval.)

Javelin: "The javelin record will, of course, be improved. The javelins themselves are being improved and that makes quite a difference. He'll be javelin, which he designs and makes himself, is perfectly legitimate in the letter of the rule. Bud is supposed to have thrown close to 280 feet in practice, but he told me it was slightly downhill. I believe, though, that a 275-foot throw can be expected within the next four years." (Held's record of 263 feet, 10 inches is up for approval.)

High jump: "I expect a 7-foot, 1-inch high jump within the next two years. I saw Shelton of USC jump 6 feet 10 and a fraction at Ann Arbor during the NCAA meet and I believe it was the greatest jump I ever saw in my life. He seemed to be at least two or three inches over the bar. I wouldn't set the limit at 7-1 but I think it is quite reasonable to expect this jump will be achieved by 1956." (Present record, 6 feet, 11 1/2 inches.)

Discus: "A 200-foot throw is reasonable to expect in the near future, but I see no one on the horizon at the moment who seems capable of it. Gordien is throwing awfully well and might possibly achieve it if the weather conditions are exactly right. It seems to me, however, that O'Brien and Dillon have a little greater potential." (Gordien's mark of 194 feet, 6 inches is up for approval.)

Broad jump: "It is about time someone was jumping 27 feet. I

It should be the greatest "choke up" affair of all time with each stroke of the winning men's pro worth approximately $350.

The champion's payoff is $50,000 in cash and a $50,000 exhibition contract. Second place drops off to $10,000, third $5,000 and the list goes down to $250 for 45th.

The women pros shot for a top award of $5,000 with $1,500 for second and down to $200 for the last 36 places. Amateurs receive the usual merchandise plus trophies.

Sandwiched between the All-American and "World Championships" will be May's inaugural international matches Aug. 10 and 11. These will pit eight outstanding overseas pros against eight U. S. stars in 18 holes of team play and another round of singles match play.

Each contestant will receive $500 regardless of order of finish. That's the only money involved in this package.

All big-name stars will compete except Ben Hogan, who won the "World" title in 1951 and has not appeared since.

Defending All American champions are Lloyd Mangrum, Frank Stranahan and Patty Berg.

"World" winners of last year returning are Lew Worsham, whose eagle 2 wedge shot on the 72nd hole gave him the $25,000 first prize with a 10-under-par 278; Stranahan, Berg and women's amateur "Wiffi" Smith, teenager from Mexico City.

Heading the list of some 40 overseas entries are Peter Thomson of Australia, 1954 British Open champion, and Roberto de la Vicenza of Argentina, one of the leading money winners on the U. S. circuit.

am of the opinion that a 27-foot jump is quite possible, but it will take a man who concentrates on the broad jump alone. Bennett of Marquette, although he is an excellent high jumper and I presume a good sprinter and low hurdler, seems to be one who does concentrate on the broad jump. His form is sound and he is one of the really fine broad jumpers of all time." (Present record, 26 feet, 8 1/2 inches.)

Sprints: "The 100 and 200 meters I should prefer to leave as they are. The shorter the distance, the easier it is to equal the mark, but the harder it is to break it. I think the 200 meters can be run in close to :20 flat on the straightaway, but I never expect to live long enough to see the :10 flat 100 meters or the :19 flat 200 meters." (Present records, :10.2 for 100, and :20.2 for 200 meters.)

500 meters: "The 880-yard record in my opinion, the poorest record in the book. Rudy Harbig's 1:46.6 for the 800 meters is an excellent record and quite a bit superior to our 1:48.6 in the 880 yards. I believe it is possible to run the 880 in 1:46 and I had thought Mal Whitfield would do it.

1,500 meters and mile: "I was amazed when Bannister did his 3:59.4. I wasn't aware that he was preparing himself for an all-out effort and it was early in the season for an English runner. Strangely enough, I was not too surprised that Landy broke Bannister's record with 3:58, although I was surprised he broke it by such a wide margin. In six or eight years of running there probably will be only two or three days when everything seems to click, when conditions are ideal, the competition keen, and everything goes effortlessly. Landy was able to capitalize upon his good day and he turned in a performance which he never may equal and which may stand for many years to come. I am not one of those who think the four-flat mile is going to become commonplace." (Landy's 3:41.8 in 1,500 meters and his 3:58 mile are up for approval.)

Distances: "I will jump the 3,000, 5,000 and 10,000 meters in one group. Landy evidently is capable of running under the world's record in the 3,000 meters and probably will when he concentrates upon the event. I should say 7:54 is within his reach in the very near future. Wes Santee also can run a very strong 3,000 meters, as well as mile, but evidently he cannot hope to reach peak condition now that he is in the Marines.

Minor All-Stars Wallop Champion Adco's 17 to 2

The Sedalia Little League minor division bowed out for the season Saturday morning with a bit of gusto on the part of the league all-stars. Picked from the seven also-ran teams, the All-Stars walloped the champion Adco's by a 17 to 2 count. The game went five innings at the L.L. Stadium.

Five all-star pitchers were used, one hurling each inning, and proved effective against the champions as they held Adco to one hit, Cole, Robinson, Zimmerschied, McFarland and Ross all took turns on the mound.

The All-Stars had ten hits and the aid of four Adco errors to account for their runs while they made only one miscue in the field.

Two full teams of All-Stars saw action: Phillips and Goetz, ss; Randall and Hanson, 2b; Zimmerschied and Ray, cf; Briscoe and Ferguson, c; Carver and Trueman, 3b; Lively and Peck, 1b; Siron and Wilson, lf; Aldridge and Howard and Roy, rf.

Playing for Adco were: C. Bulard, c; White, cf; Rayburn, 2b; H. Bullard, 1b; Schenewark, p; Hausam, rf; Miller, lf; Bozarth, 3b; Blaylock, ss.

Littler, Ulrich In 3rd Round KC Open Tie

KANSAS CITY, July 31 (P)—Gene Littler, Palm Springs, Calif., shot a sizzling 8-under-par 65, Kansas City Open golf tournament third round lead in the $20,000 and Wally Ulrich a 67 to tie for second today.

Each had 54 hole totals of 202, 17 strokes under par.

Littler, the 1953 national amateur king and runner-up in the recent U.S. open, finished with five straight birdies going out on the scorched 6,825-yard Blue Hills Country Club course.

He was over par on one hole, the 15th, coming in.

The 23-year-old Littler's game was just about perfect from tee to green. He had few long putts. He drove the 315-yard par 4 sixth hole then got his birdie on a short second putt. His 150-yard approach on the seventh was a foot short of the pin.

This is the first PGA-sponsored tournament in which Littler is eligible for prize money. He was required to serve a 6-month probationary period.

Ulrich, who shot a 66 yesterday, started out with two straight birdies today and wound up with a 67.

Lloyd Mangrum, veteran from Niles, Ill., the former champion here, matched Littler's 65 and was in third spot at 203.

Next in order, as the players continued their assault on par, were Jim Turnesa, Briarcliff, N.Y., with a 68 and 204; defending champion Ed Porley Oliver, Lenont, Ill., with 67 and 206; Bob Toski, Livingston, N.J., 67 and E.J. "Dutch" Harrison, St. Louis, 70, both also at 206.

Actually Littler had a string of seven birdies as he continued his sub-par shooting on the 10th and 11th. He was over par on only the 15th where he took a 4.

Oliver won the tournament played on the Millbrook Country Club course last year with 19 under-par 269. The friendly fat man commanded a major share of the gallery estimated at 8,000 today and is considered very much in the running for a second championship.

The tournament ends with another 18 hole round tomorrow. The low amateur was Jim English of Topeka, Kan., former University of Oklahoma star and present Kansas state amateur champion, who had 68 for the second straight day for a 209.

Another amateur, Frank Stranahan, who won the first tournament here in 1946, had a 69 for 212.

Scores included: Bo, Springer, Oklahoma City, 143-13-216.

Challenge Golf Tourney Board Shows Changes

This week's standings in the challenge tournament at the County View Golf Course reflect some successful challenges of the past week.

In the tournament, any player may challenge any other player, whose name is listed above his. When they play, the winner of the match presents the loser with a golf ball. If the challenger wins, his name replaces the other's at the higher spot on the challenge board.

Current readings on the board are given with this week's scores:

Minor All-Stars Wallop Champion Adco's 17 to 2

The Sedalia Little League minor division bowed out for the season Saturday morning with a bit of gusto on the part of the league all-stars. Picked from the seven also-ran teams, the All-Stars walloped the champion Adco's by a 17 to 2 count. The game went five innings at the L.L. Stadium.

Five all-star pitchers were used, one hurling each inning, and proved effective against the champions as they held Adco to one hit, Cole, Robinson, Zimmerschied, McFarland and Ross all took turns on the mound.

The All-Stars had ten hits and the aid of four Adco errors to account for their runs while they made only one miscue in the field.

Two full teams of All-Stars saw action: Phillips and Goetz, ss; Randall and Hanson, 2b; Zimmerschied and Ray, cf; Briscoe and Ferguson, c; Carver and Trueman, 3b; Lively and Peck, 1b; Siron and Wilson, lf; Aldridge and Howard and Roy, rf.

Playing for Adco were: C. Bulard, c; White, cf; Rayburn, 2b; H. Bullard, 1b; Schenewark, p; Hausam, rf; Miller, lf; Bozarth, 3b; Blaylock, ss.

BoSox Blank Tigers 4-0 As Williams Homers

DETROIT, July 31 (P)—Ted Williams, who thrives in Briggs Stadium, hammered his 17th home run today and the Boston Red Sox blanked the Detroit Tigers, 4-0, in a game twice delayed by rain.

Boston 100 000 003-4-9-1 Detroit 000 000 000-0-5-2 Brewer, Kinder 6 and Wilbert, Owen 6, Gromek and House, W-Brewer.

Yanks Edge Orioles In Ninth Inning 6-5

BALTIMORE, July 31 (P)—Johnny Sain relieved rookie Bob Grim in the ninth inning to quell a three-run Baltimore rally today as the New York Yankees defeated the Orioles, 6 to 5, and secured their four-game series win.

New York 200 220 200-6-8-0 Baltimore 200 000 003-5-10-3 Grim, Sain (9) and Berra Turley, Fox (8), Blyzka (8) and Courtney, W-Grim, L-Turley, HRS Baltimore-Kennedy, Hunter.

Adcock Hits 4 HRs. in Game To Tie Record

BROOKLYN, July 31 (P)—Joe Adcock, Milwaukee Braves' first baseman, slugged four home runs against the Brooklyn Dodgers today, tying the major league record for most roundtrippers in a game and leading the red-hot Braves to their ninth straight victory in a 15-7 romp.

Adcock, only the fifth batter in the long history of the major leagues to hit four out of the park in a nine inning game, also belted a double and the combination of long hits also gave him a record of 18 bases in one game.

By coincidence, the last player to hit four home runs in a nine-inning game was Gil Hodges, of the Dodgers, who also connected for a homer today. Hodges, who got into the record books with four home runs in the same park Aug. 31, 1950, also was one of the co-holders of the total bases record at 17.

Adcock's fourth home run, a soaring smash into the left field seats, also enabled the two clubs to tie the National League record of 10 home runs in one game by both clubs.

The victory cost the second place Dodgers a game in their race with the league-leading New York Giants, who whipped Cincinnati 7-0. New York now leads by four games with the Braves tearing along only nine games behind.

Adcock, a right-handed hitter who came into the game with 15 home runs and a 3.14 batting average, victimized a different pitcher with each of his home runs.

He clouted Don Newcombe's first pitch of the second inning into the left field stands. He doubled off Erv Palica in the third, then tagged him for a home run over two men on base in the fifth. No. 3 came against Pete Woye in the seventh with Hank Aaron on base. The one for the record books was hit off Johnny Podres, fifth Brooklyn pitcher, leading off the ninth inning.

Adcock joins a distinguished list of sluggers who have hit four homers in one game. Bobby Lowe of the Boston Braves turned the trick first in 1894, and Ed Delany of the Philadelphia Phillies followed in 1896.

The feat was not repeated until Lou Gehrig of the New York Yankees did it in 1932. It was 18 years later that Hodges' big day came in 1950. Chuck Klein of the Philadelphia Phillies and Pat Seerey of the Chicago White Sox also hit four in one game. But Klein needed 10 innings and Seerey 11 to get their fourth homers.

Tribe Blanks Senators With Shutout 6-0

CLEVELAND, July 31 (P)—Homers smashed by Al Rosen and Larry Doby backed up three-hit pitching by Bob Lemon today as the Cleveland Indians topped the Washington Nats 6-0.

The Cleveland right-hander faced only 30 batters. Washington's Frank Shea was beaten for his ninth time in 10 decisions. Lemon's record is 13-5.

The home runs, which gave Cleveland a 3-0 first inning lead, came back to back. Bob Avila was on base with a walk when Doby sent his 22nd homer of the season into the right field stands. Rosen's circuit clout was his 19th of the season.

Washington 000 000 000-0-3-0 Cleveland 320 100 00x-6-10-6 Shea, Keriakos (2), Marrero (8) and Fitz Gerald; Lemon and Hegan, L-Shea.

Home runs: Cleveland, Doby, Rosen.

Gilbert G. Leiter Receives Discharge

Gilbert G. Leiter, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Leiter, Kansas City, formerly of Sedalia, received his discharge from the Coast Guard after three years service on July 22. Mr. and Mrs. Leiter went to Portsmouth, Va., where he was stationed, and brought him home. They visited Morehead City, came down the East coast, went through the South and returned home by way of Texas. Enroute home they stopped in Sedalia for a visit with Mrs. Leiter's mother, Mrs. Louise Strelow, 226 East Fifth.

Gilbert plans to enter William Jewell College, Liberty, this fall.

Urges Quick Drought Aid For Missouri

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. — The Missouri state Republican chairman today urged quick federal drought relief action for this heat-seared area and at the same time hinted he would ask Democratic Gov. Phil M. Donnelly for a third special legislative session in less than a year.

The chairman, Perry Compton of Montgomery City, telegraphed Agriculture Secretary Benson of the "desperate plight" he found Missouri farmers in as he made a 2,000-mile inspection trip earlier this week with Assistant Agriculture Secretary Ross Riley.

He suggested:

1. That government-stored corn be sold to farmers for between $1.45 and $1.55 per bushel.
2. That government-stored wheat be made available to our farmers for around $1.40 per bushel.
3. That the government reinstate immediately its hay buying program of last year.
4. That the government be ready to reinstate its beef-buying program of last year if the drought continues for ten days longer, and there is every prospect that it will.
5. That the Farmers Home Administration liberalize its lending restrictions so that farmers will be eligible for loans for feed and for the drilling of new and deeper water wells. Lack of water is now a major problem.

The GOP chairman made this reference to the possibility of a third special session, a question that Governor Donnelly has not yet expressed a definite idea on.

"If you (the federal government) reinstate the hay buying program, or initiate a new program that requires matching state aid, I feel sure that Missouri will meet its part quickly and satisfactorily. The state now has a surplus in the treasury of over $10 million and Governor Donnelly could call the Legislature back into special session on short notice."

"In connection with these suggested recommendations, I shall also send a copy to Governor Donnelly so he will be alerted on the entire action."

Compton praised the courage of Missouri farmers. Then he said:

"They do not want charity, nor handouts, but they have become victims of conditions beyond their control and need help immediately. They should have a chance to obtain grains and hay at reasonable prices so they may survive the remainder of the summer and winter."

"While I appeal for all of our farmers in distress, I want to especially emphasize the case of our veterans, many of whom are war veterans, who are in the second, third and fourth year of farming and have yet to know a good year. Certainly, they should not be forced out of business because of these conditions."

Weiser, 1702 Liberty Park Blvd., who attended the annual encampment of the Civil Air Patrol which was held at Scott Air Force Base, Belleville, Ill., July 17 through 27. The two represented the Sedalia Squadron of the CAP and went through the regular routine of the Air Force.

State Ready For Water Wells Loan

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. — Missouri is all set now to take advantage of a new federal program of loans to drill water wells as soon as the President signs the new law.

Dr. Edward L. Clark, state geologist, reported to Gov. Phil M. Donnelly yesterday that a state-wide survey shows the loan program is the biggest need in drought-ridden Missouri's critical water situation.

Clark and his staff found 56 counties, mostly in the southern and southwestern sections, in "veritable bad" condition on underground water. Twenty-two others were fair but just on the edge of trouble if no rain comes in the next few weeks.

Conditions were good in 36 counties, mostly in the "bootheel" of southeastern Missouri, the northern tier of counties in the glacial drift area and a small section around St. Louis.

In most areas of the state, Clark said, 200-foot wells will give farmers a good water supply and they can be drilled for an average of $1,500 to $2,000. Drillers are ready to move in, the survey showed, but many farmers don't have the money.

Under a bill passed by both houses of Congress and awaiting the President's action, individual farmers could get loans of up to $25,000 through the Farmers' Home Administration, Clark explained. They would be repayable over 20 to 30 years.

He urged farmers who need information on location of wells to write the state geological survey at Post Office Box 250, Rolla, giving range, township and section numbers of their land.

Clark said the underground water survey will continue but his office now has enough basic information to give quick information for all parts of the state.

MKT President Sees Better Business Signs

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — The President of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas (Katy) Railroad said today there are signs business activity will pick up in the second half of 1954.

Donald V. Fraser, in a midyear report to Katy stockholders, said the general business decline in the southwestern area of the United States had been aggravated by the severe drought of the past several years.

"Despite the general decline in business activity which has marked the year to date, the long-range prospects for the country as a whole and for the Southwest in particular are bright," Fraser said.

He cited stronger retail sales, improvement in construction expenditures and the rapid correction of excessive inventories as the basis for his prediction.

Fraser said the Katy's net income for the first six months of 1954 was $1,723,409—a decrease of $1,838,792 from the net income for the first half of last year.

TB Topics

Fifty years ago a diagnosis of TB was virtually a death sentence. The "white plague" was spreading unchecked and every three minutes one American was dying of tuberculosis. TB still kills about 4,000,000 people in the world every year, but a diagnosis today—if it comes in the early stages—means a cure.

Lower Mercury, Showers Seen For the Weekend

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Showers and lower temperatures are in prospect for parts of Missouri over the weekend.

The forecast calls for scattered showers or thundershowers south and east central late today and in the south tomorrow. A drop in temperature is anticipated in the north and central portions tonight and central tomorrow. Lows tonight will range from the 60s north to 70 and 75 south with tomorrow's mid-afternoon temperatures in the 80s north and lower 90s extreme south.

Early morning temperatures today were mostly in the 70s, ranging from 81 at Kansas City to 71 at Springfield and West Plains. Other readings included Malden and Farmington 72, Rolla 73, Joplin and Butler 75, St. Joseph 76, Columbia 77, Kirksville and St. Louis 79.

Columbia had the state's highest temperature yesterday with 102. It was 101 at St. Louis, 100 at Kansas City and St. Joseph, 99 at Kirksville, 93 at Joplin and Rolla and 95 at Springfield and West Plains.

US Sends Six AF Planes to Costa Rica On 'Good Will' Tour

WASHINGTON, Mo. — The United States today sent six air force planes to Costa Rica, the Central American republic that is now embroiled with her neighbor Nicaragua over a series of border incidents.

The Air Force officially described the mission as one of "good will" comprising C-47 transports carrying only their crews. A spokesman said that the planes are taking no cargo and no "passengers" and that their first stop will be at San Jose, Costa Rica's capital.

Dispatch of the American aircraft to Costa Rica followed up a State Department statement yesterday that the United States was "following that situation with particular interest."

There have been a succession of incidents that resulted in the breaking off of diplomatic relations between Nicaragua and Costa Rica and the movement of Costa Rican troops toward her neighbor's border.

Trustee Says Bankruptcy End Possible in 1955

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — Guy M. Thompson, trustee of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, says the line's 20-years-of-bankruptcy could end next year through a ruling of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

He said the ICC handed out a summary of a ruling yesterday, which from reports he received, indicates ICC approval of an "agreed system compromise plan."

Thompson worked out the plan in conference with opposing parties over a period of many months. The ICC ruling declared the debtor company's common stock has a value and its holders may participate in reorganization of the firm. The plan probably will come before Federal District Judge George H. Moore here for approval or disapproval late this year, Thompson said.

Eugene Herrick Is Candidate For Collector

Eugene T. "Gene" Herrick, well known Sedalian and native of Pettis County, is seeking the Democratic nomination for the office of county collector of Pettis County, subject to the primary election on Tuesday.

Herrick feels he is qualified for the office, is courteous, honest and able. He was well known as a sales representative and office manager of Phillips 66 with his brother, Virgil Herrick, several years ago. He now owns and operates Gene's Quality Market, 16th and Park, which he took over in 1948.

He has pledged, if elected, to render courteous and prompt service to all citizens of the county. He also states if elected he will continue the present practice of mailing tax statements as an added accommodation to the taxpayer.

He is married and with his wife and two children, Mary K. and Dickie, reside at 1105 West 116th. Herrick was reared in Sedalia, received his education in the public schools, is an active member in the First Christian Church, a member of the Masonic Lodge and the Order of the Eastern Star. He has always been active in civic affairs and worked for the betterment of the community.

fore Federal District Judge George H. Moore here for approval or disapproval late this year, Thompson said.

"I would say that if the court approves the plan, the chances for ending the trusteeship in 1955 are very good," he said.

"It just depends on how much fighting there is (by opposing parties)," Thompson said. He said the compromise plan was the result of "pretty substantial agreement" among the various parties although not every party agreed to it.

Steelmen, Aluminum Firm Okay Pay Hike After Long Session

WASHINGTON, Mo. — A new wage contract providing a five cents an hour pay hike plus other benefits for between 15,000 and 20,000 aluminum workers was agreed upon today by the Aluminum Company of America (ALCOA) and the CIO United Steelworkers (USW).

The contract, worked out in negotiation sessions lasting until after 2 a. m. averted a strike scheduled to take effect tonight in 11 ALCOA plants.

The company and union officials announced ratification of the agreement here.

Scientists Hope to Bring Stop to Gout

WASHINGTON, July 31 (AP)—Nearly a half a million Americans today suffer from an affliction which has been a target for slinking jests and comic cartoons down the centuries.

The disease is gout. Or gouty arthritis.

It is a red-hot mixture of all the agonies sketched in Dante's "Inferno."

The cause is unknown, almost as baffling to modern physicians as it was to Hippocrates, the Father of Medicine, who prescribed burning flax near the afflicted joint 400 years before Christ.

And there is no cure. Gout lasts as long as life.

In 1812, an English writer described the pain of gout as "like the gnawing of an animal—sometimes like a fire."

I know what he meant. I have been tormented for nearly 16 years.

Although popularly called gout, the disease is one of the numerous forms of arthritis whose history goes back at least 10 or 15 million years. Scientists say dinosaurs and sabre-toothed tigers suffered from it and Stone Age men probably felt its pangs.

But at last the end may be in sight.

Government scientists, working with multimillion-dollar equipment at the National Institutes of Health at nearby Bethesda, Md., believe they may be on the path toward discovering a preventive to stop gout before it gets started.

They are not banking on the so-called miracle drugs—cortisone, ACTH, benemid and butazolidin—which merely control gout without curing it. Rather, they are hoping to short-circuit the chemical mechanism that produces gout.

"Some exciting leads are now being explored," says Dr. James B. Wyngaarden, a top expert on gout research at the National Institutes.

He cautions, however, that "overnight miracles" are not to be expected.

Even today little is known about gout, except that a list of its sufferers of other times reads almost like a "Who's Who" in history.

Celebrated gout victims include Alexander the Great, Kubla Khan, Louis XIV, William Pitt, Horace Walpole, John Milton, Talleyrand, Martin Luther, John Wesley, Sir Isaac Newton, Samuel Johnson, Francis Bacon, Ben Franklin, James Russell Lowell, Benjamin Charles Darwin.

In times when food peddlers hawked the second-hand leftovers of the rich in the streets of Paris and London, it seemed to be chiefly a scourge of the bluebloods and the brainy.

But gout has gone democratic. It no longer afflicts merely the carriage trade but hits victims in every tax bracket.

Yet the myths of the past are slow to die. Traditionally the word gout brings up a mental picture of a terrible-tempered old codger who sits with his bandage-swathed foot on a stool and lets fly with vicious swipes of his cane at anyone who ventures near.

This, of course, is comic. Gout has been a subject of more wisecracks and popular misconceptions than perhaps any other ailment in the whole lexicon of disease.

New Warfare Has Caught Up With Lancers

NEW DELHI, July 31 (AP)—

Mechanized warfare has finally caught up with the colorful lancers of India, famed as mounted warriors for two centuries.

Today's lancers have been squeezed into a single cavalry regiment in the republic of India's Army.

The new regiment, made up of four historic cavalry units, recently rode out for the first time behind unfurled battle flags won by its predecessors in 200 years of wars and rebellion.

The parade marked a new era for Indian cavalry—an era when parades and ceremonials will be its chief times for showing off and where the big battlefield roles will henceforth be left to tanks and armored cars.

Western nations made the transition long ago. But, like France, where the Black Squadron perpetuates fine horsemanship for ceremonial occasions, Indians intend to keep the traditions of their cavalry alive.

Mechanization in India's army started before World War II, but in regions inaccessible to armored vehicles the lancers still were the kingpins when it came to warfare and putting down revolt.

The new regiment admits only the finest riders. All in all, about 1,000 men will make up its roster.

It may have been a hard blow for some old-timers, but the army, in announcing formation of the new regiment, said: "The lancers, with their flashing lances, jaunty turbans and colorful costumes will be a source of wonder and excitement to children and laymen."

But the lancers will do more than just show off. Army spokesmen make it clear they will continue to be "an inspiration for chivalry, handed down to us for generations through our history."

The 500-year-old Mysore Regiment, was formed in 1749, making it one of the oldest cavalry outfits in the modern Indian army. In disciplined service under the British it saw much action throughout India and the Middle East.

Lancers of the Jodhpur Regiment were in China during the Boxer Rebellion—and the name of their home town has become a part of equestrian vocabulary the world around via Jodhpur riding pants.

designed after the tight-legged lancer uniform.

The Kachhawas Regiment gave its name to a rapid cavalry mount, galloping into battle under Sikh leaders in almost every state of India. The Jaipers, the other unit making up the new regiment, also has a long battle record.

It's a colorful history, but it hasn't helped the lancer win his battle with the tank.

Pettis 4-H Clubbers and Leaders Point Up Farm Safety Week Observance

Proclaimed by Governor, Farm Safety Week Is Observed to Remind Farm Families To Follow Simplest of Safety Rules and Guard Against Needless

Injuries Which Annually Take Their Toll; It Is Time to Check Farm and Home and Remove Obstacles to Safe Living and Working

Illustrating Good and Bad Points of Safety

Today marks the beginning of Farm Safety Week, as proclaimed by Gov. Phil M. Donnelly.

The Democrat-Capital, in an effort to emphasize this idea, asked numerous rural people, and 4-H club members, if they would help and pose for pictures demonstrating some of the many features, both safe and unsafe, on a farm.

Take, for example, Leo Brown (lower left) of Smithton. He is shown here as he fits the shield for his power takeoff in place so that he can operate his baler without danger of losing a limb. Common accident factor around many farms is caused by leaving off the shield. There are many limb-less farmers who would not be in their present shape had they heeded simple safety rules.

Lulu Mae Gibson (upper left) sports a broad smile as she descends the steps to the basement in her home. Her folks have just installed a handrail for the obvious safety purpose. Lulu Mae is a member of the Maplewood 4-H Club, which is emphasizing safety.

On the ladies' side of the work, Priscilla Ellis (second from left) route 5, shows how the smart homemaker can make her rugs slip-proof. "All you have to do is sew rubber jar rings around the edges," she says. By the way, Priscilla and her mother gave a rug making demonstration at Marshall this year.

Plowing, both in the proper and improper manner, is aptly displayed by R. D. Kahrs, in the center two pictures. Of course, unless R. D. is having his picture taken, he uses the correct angle and avoids steep slopes. R. D. is a member of the Smithton 4-H Club's tractor maintenance program and is one of its most hearty supporters.

Insecticides have always been a temptation for the young members of a farm family, and little Richard Chappell (second from right), son of Mr. and Mrs. Orin Chappelle, route 4, agrees that they should be kept out of his reach. Many farm children die each year from insecticide poisoning, due to the carelessness of their elders.

A very useful safety hint for any home is the painting of the bottom basement step white. Here, Clifford Chappell (extreme right) gives a fine exhibition of this painting project. Clifford is a member of the Quisenberry 4-H Club and is a hard worker.

Betty Ingram, Private Conway Recently Wed

Miss Betty Lee Ingram, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Ingram, Warsaw, became the bride of Pvt. James Lewis Conway, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry L. Conway, Hughesville, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon Sunday, July 25, at the Houston Baptist parsonage, the Rev. Russell Doyle performing the ceremony.

The bride wore a dress of light blue with white accessories and her jewelry included a pearl necklace and earrings.

Attending the couple were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Williams, Hughesville.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Conway were graduated from the Hughesville High School in the class of 1953. Mr. Conway enlisted on May 12 and was sent to Camp Chafee, Ark., where he spent eight weeks in basic training and was transferred on July 18 to Atlanta, Ga., where he will attend the Army's Automotive Engine Rebuild Course at the Ordnance Automotive School. The couple is now at home in Atlanta.

Fischer Family Has Reunion at Richards'

The annual reunion of the E. C. Fischer family was held Sunday, July 25, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Richards.

A contributive dinner was served cafeteria style at noon and the afternoon was spent in games, conversation, picture taking and horseback riding.

Mr. John Zinn called from Lost Springs, Kan., during the afternoon to talk with her sister, Mrs. E. C. Fischer.

Those attending the reunion were: Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Laningham, Mrs. Raymond Whalen and children, Kathie and Karyl, Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Stewart, Skipper and Marcia, and H. L. Ritterhoff, of Kansas City; Rebecca and Jacqueline Zinn of Lost Springs, Kan.; Mr. and Mrs. Clay Fischer, Mike and Eddie, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Batts and Nancy of Independence; Mrs. E. C. Fischer and Milton; Mr. and Mrs. Pollard Wood, Marvin and Roy; Mr. and Mrs. John Houston; Mr. and Mrs. Leo Richards, and Ronnie, Mr. and Mrs. Loy Richards, Lana, Mike and Janet; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Richards, Sharon, Wayne and Roger; Dean and Patti Richards of Sedalia.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Smith of Pacoima, Calif., were unable to attend.

Mrs. Sam Lutjen Has Birthday Surprise

Mrs. Sam Lutjen, 403 West 20th, was given a surprise dinner last Sunday, planned by her children, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Lutjen, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Thomas and Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Bain.

A dinner, to which all contributed, was served to Mr. and Mrs. Sam Lutjen and son, Earl; Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Kirkhoff and children, Ruby, Norbert, Merle and Verna Mae of Concordia; Herbert Bradyhoff of Emma; Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Kirkhoff of Knob Noster; Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Kirkhoff and Shirley Jo; Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Lutjen, Judy and Mike; Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Bain, Bettica and Deborah and Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Thomas, Carolyn, Pamela and Janice.

Members of the family unable to attend were another son and his family, Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Lutjen, Johnny and Dicky, Muriel, Kan., Mr. and Mrs. Norman Meyer and Mr. and Mrs. Dale Henderson, Sedalia.

Foot 'N Fiddle Club Activities Are Planned

Officers of the Foot 'N Fiddle Club, their husbands and wives, were entertained with a chicken dinner at Flat Creek Inn on Wednesday, July 28.

During the evening they made extensive plans for the fall and winter square dance season for the club.

The coming dance, which will be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Country View dance pavilion, was discussed. Members of the committee in charge are: Mr. and Mrs. Ray McGrover, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Corson and Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Phillips.

Mrs. Harbit Hostess To the CTC Club

Mrs. Wilson Harbit entertained the G. T. G. Club at a 1 o'clock dessert luncheon Tuesday.

A business meeting was presided over by Mrs. Harbit, president, and the remainder of the afternoon was spent in needlework.

There will be no meeting during the month of August because of the fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy DeWitt of 910 East Fifth, announce the engagement of their daughter, Betty, to Pvt. Lyle Duane Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Brown, Kansas City, formerly of Sedalia. A fall wedding is planned.

Grimes Family Holds Reunion At Marshall

The fifth reunion of the Grimes family was held Sunday at Indian Foodstuffs Park at Marshall with 125 descendants present, most of whom reside in Saline and Pettis counties.

As the guests arrived their attention was attracted to a large bulletin board with the wording, "Grimes Reunion 1950-54." This bulletin board will be used each year on reunion day to designate the area of the park in which the family group may be found.

Mrs. Garnett Jones, who was responsible for the table decorations, carried out a silver and green color scheme. Silver lettering, "Grimes Reunion" centered the table and from this arrangement streamers extended to the corners and were anchored with nosegays made of silver doilies and flowers. Green hydrangeas, prettily arranged, were also a part of the central table decoration.

As the guests registered they were given identification favors—the women received corsages of frilly hats and flowers and the men were given boutonnieres of miniature men's hats.

The women of the families had prepared their favorite foods and there was a quantity of excellent food for the enjoyment of the group.

Carl Grimes, president, gave the welcome address. In his remarks he mentioned that he had received a letter from Miss Bess Hawthorne, LaPlace, Ill., stating that it would be impossible for her to attend. Miss Hawthorne has collected material for the Grimes—Scobee genealogy and planned to read this historical account at the gathering this year. It was regretted that she could not be present.

The invocation was given by Dr. Harvey Baker Smith.

Following the dinner hour, the group joined in singing "The More We Get Together," led by Mrs. Roy Mackler. Dr. Smith, the guest speaker, commended the group for perfecting such a wonderful organization that will help to keep the descendants in close touch with one another through the years, and will be the means of fostering and perpetuating family unity, loyalty, and love.

Ralph Grimes, Sedalia, route 5, gave pertinent facts about the organization in 1950 and read the poem, "Old Grimes."

Special honor was paid to certain individuals, Mrs. Annie Beacraft, who had planned to attend but was prevented from doing so by the excessive heat, was honored with the presentation, "This Is Your Life." The title was in silver lettering on a large bulletin board and furnished the background for this particular phase of the program. Mrs. Shelby Livingston read the history of Mrs. Beacraft's life. A recording was made of this by Grimes Spillman, Jamesport, and later in the afternoon Mr. Spillman took the recording to the home of Mrs. Beacraft and played it for her. Love gifts were sent to Mrs. Beacraft and were presented to Abe Grimes, Hughesville; David Powell family, Hughesville; Mrs. June Grimes, Marshall; Harrison Beacraft, Overland Park, Kan.; and Eddie Lee Hutcherson, Marshall. Mr. Spillman took a number of photographs of different groups.

To add special significance to the occasion there was another bulletin board with letter, 1953-54, and on this were listed the names of the 12 babies which were born since the reunion last year. The youngest baby listed was Ronald Dale Livengood, 3-day-old son of Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Livengood, Overland Park, Kan.

Officers elected for 1955 were: Ivan Grimes, Smithton, president; Mrs. H. J. Tevebaugh, secretary; and Ralph Grimes, treasurer. The

Beauty Rest— Sound Sleep Is a Must

By Alicia Hart
NEA Beauty Editor

Smart teen-agers know how important it is for them to get eight hours of sleep each night. They realize adequate sleep is essential for both health and beauty.

As you glance at your teen-age friends, you can usually tell which girl has been getting sufficient sleep. She's the girl with the dazzlingly clear skin, and the bright, uncreased eyes. She's also the girl who's last to feel tired at a party or a dance. In other words, she's alert, radiant, and full of pep and energy.

During your summer vacation, you're bound to engage in some outdoor sports. And a day spent playing tennis, swimming, cycling or hiking certainly should be followed by a good night's sleep and rest.

Check your bedroom before going to sleep. Is the ventilation sufficient? Will you have plenty of fresh air? If you go to sleep in a slightly stuffy bedroom, you will awake feeling slightly drowsy and you may have a slight headache.

Make sure your windows are open at the top and bottom. If you have only one window, however, leaving the door open will help to circulate the fresh air.

Your sleeping attire depends entirely on your own preference. Cotton pajamas "shortie" nightgowns are the most comfortable for hot weather.

You should have a good mattress and clean, smooth sheets. For a cooling effect, try sprinkling talcum powder on your bottom sheet. Then, spray your top sheet gently with a light, fragrant cologne.

Remember, for youthful good looks you need plenty of sleep and the prettiest face is a rested one.

Wasson Reunion Aug. 8

The annual Wasson Reunion will be held at Liberty Park on Sunday, Aug. 8. A basket dinner will be served at noon.

About Town

Doyle Ross Mabry, who has been living the past several years with his grandmother, Mrs. Emma Gumm, in Cole Camp, has returned to Sedalia and Mrs. Gumm is now residing here, too.

The eighth anniversary of the club he organized, called the Best Friend Club, was observed with special services on July 23. Mr. and Mrs. Don Lamm, Jr., 1620 South Beacon, have as guests her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Williams, Miami, Fla. They arrived Thursday in time for the first birthday of their grandson, Art.

reunion will be held at Liberty Park, Sedalia, next year. The program was closed with the group joining hands and singing, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds."

Perhaps those pieces of needlework will draw a prize at the Missouri State Fair this year if you have them framed properly so they can be displayed.

The sets of early auto models, trains, moose, duck or geese, horses heads and country scenes—all are good subjects to exhibit. Some pieces require mats in order to bring out the colors and handiwork but in any event the proper mounting and framing will help in winning the blue ribbon.

KNIT DRESSES have become a basic item in mi-lady's wardrobe. Each season they are more handsome and more versatile. This year you will find three-piece outfits—skirt and jacket matching, blouse in contrasting color. For the woman with fuller hips, she is in great luck as the skirts are slightly flared and she will be as handsome in them as her slim hipped friends. Select different accessories to go with your knit dress, so you can wear it for both dressy occasions and shopping tours. For a more finished picture select a hat that will match it perfectly. Of course, have your shoes and purse to match—your gloves to match your light blouse. Knit dresses call for metal or wooden jewelry as a rule. Unless of course your dress is navy or black and sometimes then you can wear pearls. Now about new colors—cedar green is really beautiful. It's a soft, gentle green that is easy to wear, so try it on. Lovers of brown shades will be thrilled with "ginger." It's rich and warm looking, use dark brown and beige with it. Of course, we have gold, navy, black and other colors to fit into your wardrobe. Select your knit dress with care—they are a real investment because they do not show wear for many seasons.

Announce Her Engagement At a Luncheon

Mrs. Charles F. Covey entertained with a 1:30 o'clock luncheon at her home in Knob Noster Wednesday to announce the approaching marriage of Miss Ruth Reeder of Roy, N. M., who has made her home in Knob Noster the past two years, to Mr. Jack Thomas of Waukegan, Ill. The marriage will take place on Sunday, August 15.

Guests were seated at small tables with organdy covers in pastel shades. Pink carnations and pink asters were used on the tables and throughout the rooms.

Mrs. Covey presented a corsage to the guest of honor and also a gift.

Games were played during the evening.

Guests were: Miss Reeder, Mrs. Erma Thomas, Warrensburg, Mrs. James D. Rowland, Mrs. C. L. Saults, Mrs. R. M. Scott, Mrs. Gordon Anderson, Mrs. Lloyd D. Wasson, Mrs. H. C. Washcloth Zoo Entices Little Boys to Bathe

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Small boys who don't like to wash behind their ears sometimes can be coaxed along the path to cleanliness by a washcloth zoo.

Mothers can produce wonderful fun-face washcloths from worn bath towels, transfer patterns and a sewing machine. There are standard transfer patterns available for such animals as a monkey, a lamb, an elephant, a kitten, a hippopotamus, a lion, a horse and practically any other member of the animal kingdom you can mention.

Each pattern has a complete transfer alphabet, so you can identify the cloths with the owner's name.

Local sewing center experts suggest that instead of embroidering the washcloths by hand, you use your sewing machine to make fashion stitching outlining the animal faces and names. First stamp the transfer design on organdie, using a warm iron. Baste organdie right side down over wrong side of washcloth fabric. Work on wrong side of washcloth, using pearl cotton No. 8 in the bobbin and mercerized thread on top.

It's fun to make the washcloths in surprising colors to intrigue the small fry—try a pink hippo, a bright green tiger, a blue kitten. Make them for birthdays or for fast-selling bazaar items.

And one last tip: If you buy new terry cloth instead of using old towels, be sure it is treated for non-shrinkage. Otherwise your animal faces will lose their expression.

Daughters of Isabella Have Annual Picnic

The Daughters of Isabella, Sedalia Circle No. 310, entertained with their annual picnic for members and their families Wednesday evening at the Catholic Community Center. Mrs. Charles A. Mulcahey and her committee were in charge.

Mrs. Scotten And Mr. Waters Marry In N. M.

Mrs. Lucille Scotten, widow of William E. Scotten, was married to Mr. D. J. Waters, of Washington, D. C., at the home of her son, Mr. William E. Scotten, Albuquerque, N. M., on July 16. Attending the ceremony were her two sons and their wives, Mr. and Mrs. William Scotten and Mr. and Mrs. Corder Scotten, and her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Alan McMillen and family.

Mrs. Waters is a former Sedalia, leaving here several years ago for Albuquerque to reside. Mr. Waters is a conductor for the Pennsylvania Railroad running from Washington, D. C., to New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. Waters will reside in Arlington, Va., where he has a home. They are spending several days in Sedalia visiting relatives and friends enroute to Virginia.

By Alicia Hart
NEA Beauty Editor

The mature figure needs an excellently fitted and carefully selected girdle. And this is particularly true in summer, when the sheer light-weight dresses demand a foundation garment with enough support and control to assure the smooth lines.

Don't choose a heavy girdle, thinking its weight means greater control. Today, it's possible to get lightweight, cool materials without sacrificing support. Take your time in choosing a foundation that will solve your figure problems and will be comfortable in hot, humid weather, too.

Once you've chosen your type of girdle, the next most important thing is keeping it fresh and snug-fitting. Corsettes, girdles and bras shape to the body quickly in warm weather and sometimes lose their control. Regular soap-and-water care will help bring your garments back to their original size and snug fit.

Every woman should have at least two foundation garments, one to wear and one to wash. Washing your girdle soon after every few wearings will insure protection against perspiration dangers to the fabric and elastic.

To prepare your garment for washing, turn it inside out. To prevent rusting, remove the garters. Then, place it in a basin of lukewarm soapuds and let it soak for five or ten minutes.

After lukewarm rinsings, squeeze to remove excess water, but do not wring. Then, roll in a large bath towel. Next, spread your girdle flat on the towel and start shaping it. Pull it crosswise first, then lengthwise. Stretch the cotton tape which covers the boning, and all the seams and darts.

Remove the center from frankfurter or hamburger rolls and stuff with a well-seasoned meat or fish salad mixture.

Reunion In Visits From Kuttengkulers

By Mrs. T. W. Miller

TIPTON —The past three weeks have been enjoyable for Mrs. J. J. Kuttengkuler and three of her sons and their families. Arriving Sunday, July 11, on vacation were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kuttengkuler and daughter, Georgia Lynn, Independence; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kuttengkuler, Springfield; and Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Kuttengkuler and daughter Cheryl of Schenectady, N. Y. Trips were taken to the sons' homes in Independence and to Springfield. Also to the Ozarks on a sight-seeing tour. Ralph is employed with the Kansas City Power and Light Co., Ray with Dun and Bradstreet, Inc., and Cyril with General Electric.

While in Tipton, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kuttengkuler and Georgia Lynn visited Mrs. Kuttengkuler's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dix, Georgia Lynn remaining for a longer visit here.

Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Kuttengkuler and Cheryl are spending this week in Jefferson City, guests of Mrs. Kuttengkuler's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Lauf.

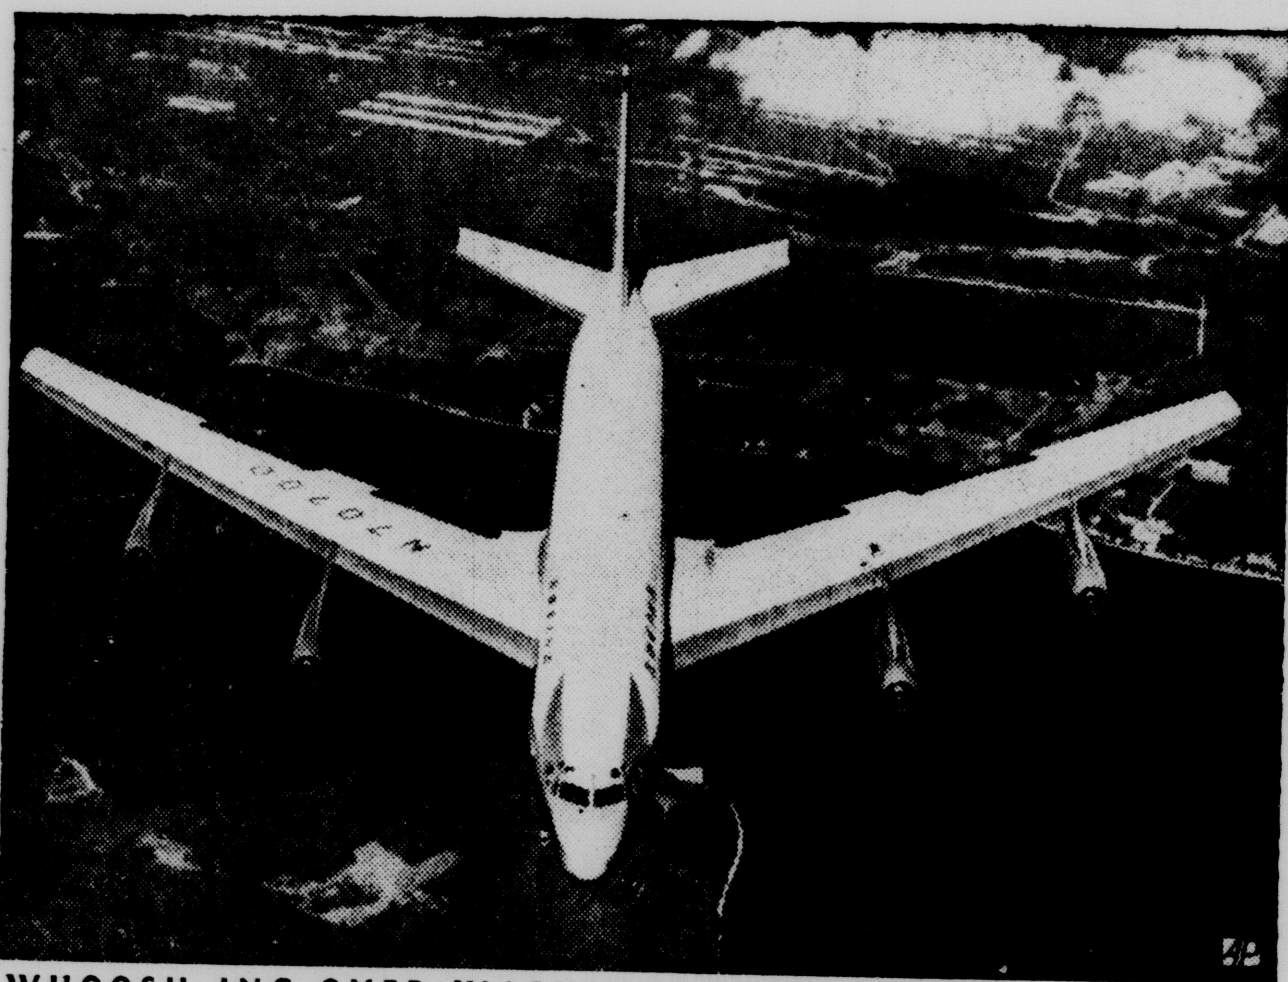

Another of Mrs. Kuttengkuler's sons, Staff Sgt. Quinton Kuttengkuler and his wife were unable to be here. Quinton is stationed in Newfoundland.

District Deputy J. A. Conn attended a Lions Club cabinet meeting held Sunday in Camden when the program for the year was set up.

"The Tadpoles," a square dancing team from Camden will appear at the Tipton Fair Saturday night. The team is made up of children ranging in ages from four to ten years. The Tipton Fair opened Wednesday to continue for four days and nights.

Mrs. Kenneth Worley spent the weekend in St. Joseph visiting Mr. Worley, who is with the Ream Truck Line. While Mrs. Worley was away the children visited with their grandparents, Janice and Ronnie with Mr. and Mrs. Lou McCoy at Buncheon, and Buster and Jimmie with Mr. and Mrs. O. Worley, north of town.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Barnett and children Nancy and Tommy of Kansas City arrived Monday to remain until Thursday as guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Miller and children, Steve and Karen. Mrs. Miller and Mr. Barnett are cousins and E. N. Pizer is his uncle. Mr. Barnett, who is a mail carrier in Kansas City, was on a two-week's vacation. He and his family were taking in the Fair.

W. H. (Bill) Helt, cashier of the Tipton Farmers Bank, entered St. Mary's Hospital at Jefferson City Sunday, where he will probably remain a week or so for a checkup.

Mrs. Charles Fry returned home Tuesday. She spent 12 days in St. Joseph's Hospital, Boonville, and the past eight weeks in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Orscheln.

Last Wednesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Muenks took their daughter Dolores, 8, to the swimming pool in Sedalia, along with two of Dolores' friends, Cathy and Keith Klass, children of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Klass. Cathy is 10, and Keith, 8.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Swamer recently arrived from Mercedes, Tex., for a stay of several weeks in the Mackay home.

Mrs. S. W. Cary returned to the Wednesday from St. Joseph's Hospital at Boonville where she had undergone surgery the Monday before. She and Mr. Cary have as their guests this week, Mrs. Cary's brother and sister-in-law, A. L. and Mrs. Eugene Draffen, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wade W. Draffen of the Cotton community were guests in the home Sunday.

Mrs. Leo J. Koehner was returned home Saturday from St. Joseph's Hospital at Boonville along with her infant son, Marvin Andrew, born to the family there July 4th.

Robert Vest Jr., who left July 6th for the U. S. Navy is taking his basic training at Great Lakes Training Center, Ill. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Vest Hirst and is a '53 graduate of Tipton High School.

Several Farm Deals Made At Versailles

By Mrs. Charles Harris
VERSAILLES — Norman McCann, United Farm Agency, Versailles, reports 201 acres owned by G. T. Collier of Morton, Tex., were sold to Mr. and Mrs. William Kline of the state of Iowa. Possession at an early date.

Seventy acres on Highway 52, near Stover, an improved farm, were purchased by L. J. Kauffman of Kansas City and a new cut-rate gas station is nearing completion. The seller was Mrs. Florence Philpot, Kansas City.

The sale of the R. J. Behrens farm, located north of Cole Camp, and sold to Alvin Wickstrom and wife of Alliance, Nebr., was in excess of $80,000.

John Garrison is reported very ill at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Theodore Brown, and Mr. Brown, where he is being cared for.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Zug sold their personal belongings at auction Monday and are returning to the state of California to reside.

Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Gill and family, Paducah, Ky., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Friedley last week several days.

Mrs. L. A. Huffman left last week for Denver, Colo., to visit her granddaughter, Mrs. George Bierbaum and husband.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Otten, Bremerton, Wash., spent last week here in the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Otten and other relatives.

Mrs. John Gordon, formerly Miss Elizabeth Lutman, of Cove, L. I., was a guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. John G. Witten, Mrs. Gordon will sail for Europe soon, where she will spend the winter months.

John Washburn, Mickey White and George Lutman left Sunday for Philmont Scout Ranch at Cimarron, N. M. They were accompanied by explorer scouts of the Lake of the Ozarks. They will spend three weeks at the Scout Ranch.

Mrs. James Barnes left last week for Wichita, Kan., where she will visit her sister, Mrs. M. B. Bruce, several weeks.

Mrs. Clarence Cable and children, Mrs. Willie Silvey and F. M. Geiger left Thursday last week for Belmond, Tex., to visit Lt. and Mrs. Bob Robinson.

Jean Parker Returns To Screen as Moll

HOLLYWOOD — Jean Parker, back to the movies after a nine-year absence—for stage and motion picture—now is playing a gangster's inamorata in an opus called "Black Tuesday." This is some switch, inasmuch as Jean is best remembered—and recall it as her most enjoyable picture—for the very delicate "Sequoia," made many years ago.

As Edward G. Robinson's leading lady, Jean, who is very much the brunette, had to dye her hair a light blonde. But she doesn't feel blonde, she says, although as a blonde she finds that men are more attracted than when her hair was brown.

Octogenarian Cyclist
RICHMOND, Va. — George Whitfield, 80, rode a bicycle 100 miles from Washington to visit the University of Richmond. Nothing to it, said Whitfield, member of the class of 1892. Last year he pedaled to Lawrence, Kansas, and back — a 1,600-mile jaunt.

Antarctic ice axes are among the weapons used in Columbia's picture "Hell Below Zero" in color by Technicolor now playing through Tuesday at the Uptown Theatre. Alan Ladd stars in the drama which was actually filmed with the Antarctic whaling fleet. Companion feature, Richard Conte, Joan Bennett and Wanda Hendrix in "Highway Dragnet."

Hal Boyle's Column—Sums Up 30 Years' Service To Indians of South Dakota

By HAL BOYLE
PINE RIDGE, S.D. — "I always like the spirit of these people."

In this simple sentence the Rev. Stephen E. McNamara, who calls himself an "ecclesiastical hobo," sums up 30 years of service to the American Indian.

To thousands of Indians here on the largest reservation of the Sioux nation, the Jesuit priest, now in his 80th year, is known as "sina Sapa" or "Black Blanket," from the color of his cassock. Others affectionately call him "the Father from the Blue Cloudland."

For more than a quarter of a century "Father Mac" has baptized them, married them and buried them. In the Holy Rosary Mission School he has labored mightily to teach their children white man's lore to make them self-sufficient, the love of God to make them happy.

Like most people who come to know American Indians well, Father Mac has a deep respect for them and a protective feeling toward them.

His fine blue eyes harden and an indignant note creeps into his soft voice when he speaks of those who feel expect the Indians to progress at a rate beyond their ability.

"No people in all history have moved up from a savage status to modern civilization in one generation," he said. "It will take time. It seems to me it is the policy of the government now to write them off, and they are not ready yet. It will be a long time before the Indian will be able to compete on equal terms in the white man's world, particularly the way the white man's world is going now."

"Why, there are still Indians alive who virtually were born in the stone age and yet they have grandchildren in college."

Father Mac has a feeling of real sympathy for the tug of war going on in the soul of a nomad people such as the Sioux, as they try to buckle down to the anchored life and steady work habits of their white conquerors. "The Sioux are very intelligent people," he said, "but their theme song always has been 'Don't Fence Me In.' They'd still in their hearts rather be out."

New Young Star Is Ascending As Bullfighter

JUAREZ, Mexico, July 31 — There's a rising new star in the Mexican bullfight world, a star the aficionados say bears close watching.

He is Heriberto Garcia, slender 16-year-old son of Heriberto Garcia Sr., who was one of Mexico's top matadors before he retired from the bull ring 10 years ago.

In slightly more than two years, young Garcia has become one of Mexico's outstanding "novilleros," or beginners. His more devoted fans are enthusiastically comparing his style with that of the classic figures in Mexican bullfight history.

The youngster has made four appearances in the Plaza de Toros here. In the first he was badly gored. In the second he was awarded two ears—a mark of a very skillful fight that pleased not only the critical audience but the even more critical judges.

Although he received no ears in his latest appearance, the smiling youngster did succeed in bringing forth an audience demand for a vuelta—the triumphant victory parade around the bull ring to receive the crowd's cheers.

The vuelta came after Garcia had performed four consecutive "passes natural"—the basic and most difficult pass in bullfighting—and had thrilled the crowd with a perfect execution of the "manolete"—a difficult and beautiful pass named for the greatest man in Mexican bullfighting history—Manolete.

There are whispers, by the devoted, that the boy has shown in the 50 bulls he has fought so far the same grace, fire, ability and flare that made Manolete a Mexican idol, and who knows, perhaps in a few more years. . . .

Hollywood Has One Tradition, Yule Slump

HOLLYWOOD — A Hollywood observer of the day that the industry is old enough now to have traditions, but, unfortunately, it doesn't seem to have many.

"Traditions" scoffed a listener. "Sure, we have at least one—the Christmas layoff."

Tax Rate Low
DETROIT — Suburban Hazel Park's tax rate this year is the lowest in Hazel Park's history and among the lowest tax rates in the nation. $10 per $1,000 of assessed valuation. Much of Hazel Park's municipal income is gained from taxes on running and harness races at a track there.

DeMille Hunts For Old Tree Of Moses Age
HOLLYWOOD, July 31 — Cecil DeMille's search for a tree as old as Moses is an intriguing thought, even if press agent-inspired. It is no secret that DeMille is getting ready to film a story called "The Ten Commandments." The tie-in is obvious.

The director has asked the U.S. Forest Service and private conservation agencies to find a tree which was a seedling when God gave Moses the commandments 3,200-odd years ago. Such a tree probably will be a redwood or a juniper.

Already redwoods growing in many parts of northern California have been eliminated as possibilities because authorities are unwilling to say unequivocally that any one of their trees is as old as Moses' approximate age, 3,276 years. The age will be established by comparing the measurements of the base circumference of standing trees with fallen trees whose age was reckoned by counting annual rings.

When the tree is found, DeMille says he will put a plaque on it "as a constant reminder of man's nearness to God."

Bob Thomas In Hollywood—James Stewart Is Difficult To Interview; Not a Talker

By HUBBARD KEAVY
(For Bob Thomas)

HOLLYWOOD — The hesitancy of speech that marks James Stewart as you know him is no screen affectation. He talks that way in his den at 918 Roxbury Dr., too, on such as his work, his weight, his income, his future, his first trip to Europe and any other subject the interviewer introduces.

Stewart seldom initiates small or large talk, but when questioned, he is prompted and reminded by the interviewer, Mrs. Stewart and a press agent, he gives in his hesitant, word-searching, yet altogether charming manner. If you close your eyes you'd think he was playing a scene. It occurred to me that if Jim and that other man of few words, Gary Cooper, ever get together the conversation must be a brilliant series of "yops" and "nopes."

Jim has had remarkably successful films since he became a free lancer, able to pick his own stories, studios and directors. What is his luck, a formula, advice? He answers, after some seconds of thought, and I condense because of space limitations: "Well, now, you might say I'm lucky. Yes, sir, you might. I guess

I am. We got kind of a plan worked out, you might say. We look for certain things."

Anyone so successful must be besieged with scripts. "Yes, that's about all my reading amounts to. Don't have time for much other reading. How many scripts a year do I read? Oh, I don't know. Quite a bunch. Several hundred? Well, maybe. Maybe. You might say it runs into hundreds."

Did he ever turn down any stories that he wished he hadn't. And if so, what were the pictures? "Oh, yes. Yes I have. Several, as a matter of fact. Now maybe I'll think of what they were. Let me see. . . . No, guess I can't remember the names of 'em."

Television? "Well, I wouldn't mind getting my feet wet in it. But it seems kind of silly to give yourself competition, doesn't it? If they can see me for free at home, why pay

First Windsor Park Head At Dedication

By Mrs. Leonard Phifer
WINDSOR—Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Comer, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Comer, Lees Summit, were here Sunday and visited friends and attended Windsor Park dedication. J. A. Comer was the first park board president and had a part on the program.

Celebrate 40th Wedding Anniversary

By Mrs. Al Dierking
SWEET SPRINGS — Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Meyer, Concordia, were very pleasantly surprised Sunday, July 18, at Sweet Springs Memorial Park on their wedding anniversary. They were married July 12, 1914, at Brazilton, Kan.

The Rev. Melvin Lichte, pastor of the Evangelical Church of Emma, gave a short service after the basket dinner was served.

Those present to help their parents celebrate were: Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Roepe and family, Odessa, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Simmons and family, Tulsa, Okla., Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Meyer, Sweet Springs, Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Meyer, Emma, Mr. and Mrs. Don Humbird and family, La Monte, and Clifford Meyer of the home and three daughters were unable to attend.

Other guests were: the Rev. and Mrs. Melvin Lichte and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Roepe, Concordia, Max Wager, Blackburn, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cordes and son, Kansas, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schlichelman and son, Robert Couch, Odessa, Mrs. Anna Tagtmeyer, Houstonia; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Cordes and family, Sweet Springs, Miss Shirley Osery, Mrs. Leroy Mayhugh and family and Harvey Cordes of Kansas City.

Mrs. Henry Peal, Odessa, baked the cake, which was served to all.

David Michael Kirkhoff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Kirkhoff, was baptized Sunday morning, July 25, in the morning service of the Evangelical and Reformed Church in Emma.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Buie and family, Detroit, Mich., are spending a vacation with his sister, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Roscher and family.

Mrs. Mayme Nelson, Sedalia, is spending a few weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Nelson and family.

Junior Linder, a patient at Hines Veterans Hospital, Hines, Ill., came Thursday for a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Linder, Junior drove alone from Illinois, his car being equipped with hand controls.

Mrs. Henry Williams and daughter, Mrs. Herbert Krause accompanied by her son, Charles, Kansas City, went to Sedalia Monday where they attended the funeral of Mrs. Williams' brother, Jess Duffield.

HIGH YIELD—Farmer Worth Norton, of Lamar, Mo., is mighty proud of his oat yield. Planted in October on prairie land, his six-acre farm yielded an average of 126 bushels of oats per acre. About 25 bushels per acre is considered average for Missouri. The crop was so thick he could handle only six drill rolls at a time with his combine.

Knob Noster Lions Fete the Teagues Who Go to Archie

Members of the Knob Noster Lions Club and their families held a picnic supper at the Knob Noster State Park Monday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Teague and family, who are moving soon to Archie. Mr. Teague was superintendent of the Knob Noster schools the past seven years. A gift from the club was presented to the Teague family.

During the evening Jack Sauls was installed as the new president.

Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Scholle, Concordia, were special guests. Dr. Scholle is district governor of the Lions.

Profits Run Neck to Neck With '53 Boom

NEW YORK (AP)—The first 416 corporations to report on earnings show that profits from American industry and trade are running neck and neck today with booming 1953.

But for an unusually large number of corporations, the profit and loss statements are either very good or very bad.

Half of the companies are doing better than last year—some blazing new trails into record high profits for the first half of the year. The general business slump may have cut their sales totals, but lighter taxes push them into new high ground.

Just about as many are trailing last year's first six months' earnings. And 17 of the companies operated in the red so far this year. Only five did a year ago.

Utilities and communication companies gained much more than did industrials. Railroads were dragging—25 of the 28 showing declines in earnings this year, and four reporting net losses.

The 416 corporations' combined net profit after taxes comes to $3,335,328,254. The same companies earned $3,268,213,308 in the first half of 1953. This puts them 2 per cent ahead this year, with 211 of them showing gains over a year ago.

The 368 industrials in the list had combined earnings 6.7 per cent ahead of a year ago. The 20 utilities showed a combined increase of 51 per cent. But the 28 rails were off 44 per cent.

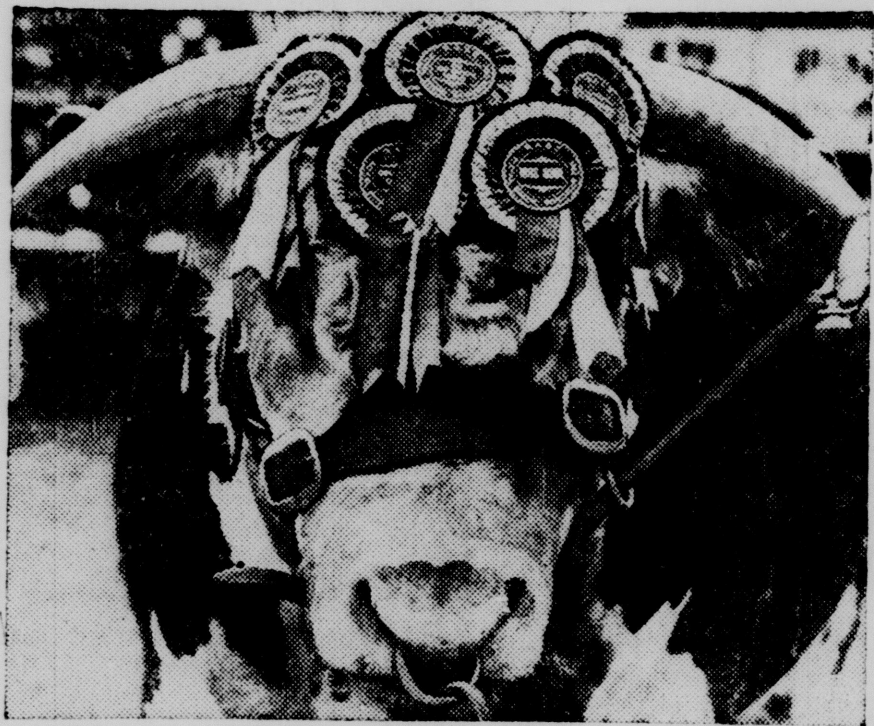

Biggest gains this year were made by aircraft companies, reflecting defense spending as well as tax relief. Motors reporting so far are ahead, with General Motors' gains setting the pace. The end of the excess profits tax helped here.

Cement companies as a group did well, reflecting the demands of the booming construction industry. Business machines, oil equipment, electrical equipment, and heavy machinery were listed among the better gainers.

The 10 tobacco companies reporting so far show a combined gain of 14 per cent, despite sales fluctuations due to health scares. Coal, textiles, carpets, alcoholic

Contest to Name Parakeet Continued 2 More Weeks

The contest for naming the pet parakeet at the Sedalia Public Library is arousing much interest. Because of the extremely hot weather, the contest has been extended for two weeks. There remains one week of that time for children to make their entries. The contest closes Aug. 7 and the decision and winner will be announced Aug. 15.

beverages, farm equipment, tools, and mining companies operated in the red, as did five of the 14 textile firms.

Steel companies did better than many had expected. Although 24 of 30 companies had lower profits than in the 1953 period—which represented the peak of their production boom—their combined earnings were off only 14 per cent.

party planning time comes is "Showers for All Occasions," by Germaine Haney. This new book, just received at the Sedalia Public Library, is full of up-to-the-minute ideas for making parties for brides, parents-to-be, grooms, hostesses or homemakers all sparkling and memorable. Included are chapters on entertainment at showers, presentation of gifts, table decorations and special showers.

"There are only about ten million people (out of 159 million) in America, who own their own businesses," says Justus Day Wilbur, author of "You Can Own a Business," and proceeds to list 169 ways to "be your own boss." The suggestions cover fields which will appeal not only to men, but to women and children, and represent a little or no capital. Instead of generalizing about each way to own a business, the book gives the actual names and addresses of firms who can supply materials, start the reader out, or train him for each particular business.

Fashion Book Appeals

Eleanor Arnett Nash, a noted fashion expert, is the author of a book which will appeal to all women, "Beauty Is Not an Age." Every woman, believes Mrs. Nash, can achieve the beauty of careful grooming and tasteful dress. She outlines a practical program for the care of complexion, hair and other personal grooming details to help busy women of all ages. Questionnaires are included to serve as a checklist and enable the reader to evaluate her appearance, health and attitudes.

"Children for the Childless," as edited by Morris Fishbein, M.D., contains contributions by experts, and contains a concise explanation of the medical, scientific and legal facts of fertility, sterility, heredity and adoption. Used in conjunction with visit to the family physician, it is a handbook for the single and married and a source of hope for the childless.

W. B. Kirschner Heads Navy Band Training Program

WASHINGTON — Navy Warrant Officer Winstead B. Kirschner, son of Mrs. John W. Kirschner, Green Ridge, and husband of the former Miss Jean O'Reilly, Washington, D. C., has assumed duty as head of the Academic Training Department of the U.S. Naval School of Music here. He comes here from a two-year tour of duty as leader of the U.S. Naval Training Center Band at Great Lakes, Ill.

A veteran of 15 years in the Navy music program, Warrant officers of sports magazines such as Sports Afield, Verne E. Davison, is represented by his book, "Homemade Fishing." The volume treats, dependably and easily, with those things which make a fish pond successful or disappointing.

Officer Kirschner first attended the Naval School of Music as a piano instrumentalist after which he was assigned as a Navy musician in Unit Band 9, serving aboard various ships.

He was a piano instructor at the Naval School of Music from 1949 to 1952.

His duties in the Academic Training Department of the Naval School of Music will make him responsible for assigned courses of study, scholastic records, and administration of classroom and individual instruction for the Navy, Army, and Marine Corps student bandmen in training.

Kirschner has studied at the University Extension Conservatory in Chicago and at American Uni-
